PURGE DISASTER HEARTENS G.O.P. HOPE FOR GAINS

Primaries Reverses Hurt Democrats.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—With all except a few of the primaries over, Republicans are pondering the lessons learned from President Roosevelt's ill fated purge adventure. It is with hopeful hearts that the G. O. P. leaders reflect upon these lessons and then look forward to the congressional elections in November.

[Black states are those which G. O. P. senate candidates expect to win.]

A minimum of six additional seats in the senate and a gain of between 50 and 100 seats in the house are the fruits to be realized from a practical application of the purge lessons, according to members of the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committees.

Machine Not Invincible.

Lesson No. 1, they declare, explodes the theory that the Roosevelt-Farley-Hopkins-Ickes machine is invincible. This is the theory, cynically and succinctly expressed by Vice President John N. Garner during the 1936 campaign, that "you can't beat four billion dollars."

Yet it was beaten, successively and uniformly in nine states whose Democratic senators up for renomination this year were marked for the purge. The lure of bridges and roads, projects and pork, and of hundreds of millions of dollars to swell the WPA reliefers' army, failed to seduce a sufficient number of the voters.

The second important lesson learned from the purge misadventure, as the Republicans view it, is that the basic Roosevelt policies are unpopular.

Fail to Discount Losses.

Apologists for the purge seek to discount the political significance of Mr. Roosevelt's defeats, claiming that his policies were not at issue. Forgetting their triumphant shouts when such yes-men as Senator Claude Pepper of Florida and "Dear Alben" Barkley of Kentucky were renominated, they say the victories of the nonrubber stamps prove only that it is hard to defeat a sitting senator. In no case, they insist, did a senator marked for the purge attack the fundamental policies of the Roosevelt administration.

This contention is not supported by the record. The nine senators slated for the purge offered no apologies for their opposition to the Roosevelt court packing scheme. The seven who opposed the government reorganization bill said they would do so again. Most of them assailed blank check spending, collectivism, trends, and the President's effort to dictate the choice of representatives in congress.

Tydings Victory Conspicious.

The most conspicuous defeat of the purge attempt, however, was that administered by Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, the supreme target of the administration vendetta. Senator Tydings assailed: The monopolistic innovations of the old NRA. The scarcity economics and regimentation of the old and the new AAA. The squandering of taxpayers money and the piling of deficit upo deficit. The attempts to make the judicial and legislative branches of the government subordinate to the chief executive. The appointment of Senator Hugo Black, a former Ku Klux Klansman, to the United States Supreme court.

Senator Tydings went still further, blasting such sacred cows of the Roosevelt administration as the social security act and the Wagner labor relations act. On the night before the Maryland primary, in the last major speech of his campaign Senator Tydings said he would continue to work for drastic revision of the social security and labor relations acts.

After this frontal assault upon the basic policies of the Roosevelt ad

500 Mile an Hour Speed Reported for German Plane

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Germany is trying to break the world's speed record with a specially constructed new Messerschmidt plane. It was reported that the plane reached a speed of 500 miles an hour on a short flight in southern Germany. A new cooling device along the wings of the plane utilizes the cooling powers of the wind.

Curator Yields to Temptation on Sea Voyage

New York, Sept. 18. — [Special.] — Down on the docks they told a tragic tale today. It had to do with a leptodactylus fallax which broke his neck and fell afoul of scientific curiosity. Result: eleven more of the species followed the neck breaker to death.

Raymond Ditmars.

The leptodactylus fallax is a tailless amphibian from the steaming jungles of Trinidad, off the South American coast. Some folk would say it was just a golden bellied frog.

Where Are Those Frogs?

Customs men drew attention to the fate of the leptodactyli when Dr. Raymond Ditmars, curator of reptiles at Bronx zoo arrived today from Trinidad. Where, they demanded severely, were the twelve golden bellied frogs?

"Well," said Ditmars, "the first one broke his neck—or perhaps he only dislocated it. Whatever the injury was, it was fatal. Something prompted our expedition we went to Trinidad for specimens to put into the zoo—to wonder what the legs of a leptodactylus fallax broiled would taste like.

Like Tempting Draught.

"So I decided to find out. I found out. It was like tempting a drunkard with a whiff of alcohol. Soon I made up my mind that six frogs were enough for the zoo and five more sets of frog legs were broiled.

"That left six. But it was a long voyage. What if they, too, should break their necks. So— "

"You ate the other six," said a customs man accusingly.

"There are no frogs left," admitted the curator without shame.

AFTER SIXTY TRIALS, A SET OF TEETH STILL WAITS FOR ITS OWNER

Sergt. John Steffen of the Sheffield avenue police listened attentively as the small man lisped an appeal. It was an old tale to the sergeant.

"Sure," he said, "go into the next room and look on the desk. If they fit, take them. You're welcome."

The small man followed instructions. He returned. "Thankth, thergeant," he said, "they don't fit." Then he went away. Sergt. Steffen explained.

"A week ago," he said, "somebody found a set of upper teeth at Lincoln and Sheffield avenues. We put 'em in a glass of water. Word got around that we had 'em, and over sixty people have been in looking at them. But no toothless Cinderella yet. I'm wondering how sixty people in this neighborhood lost their uppers this summer."

CHICAGO TO PUT CLOCKS BACK AN HOUR NEXT WEEK

Daylight savings time for 1938 in Chicago and vicinity started on its last week of life yesterday. At 2 o'clock next Sunday morning, Sept. 25, clocks will be moved back to 1 o'clock to conform with central standard time, and Chicagoland will get back the hour it lost last April 24 when the clocks were moved ahead.

The system of adopting daylight savings time in the summer months began as a war measure to conserve power and fuel. For twenty years now Chicago has moved its clocks ahead one hour in April and back one hour late in September by virtue of a city ordinance.

TOY GUN BANDIT TAKES A BEATING AND GOES TO JAIL

Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Carl Miller, 25 years old, a canning factory employé, was arrested by Sherif George Scott today on a charge of holding up a couple on a lonely road and ordering them to disrobe. Walter Ross, a farmer, victim of the holdup, knocked Miller's pistol from his hand and gave him a severe beating, helped by his girl companion Ross then discovered the gun was a toy pistol.

Peace Prayers Rise from All British Altars

LONDON, Sept. 18. — (AP) — From Westminster to Singapore and from John O'Groats to Melbourne the British empire's millions prayed today for peace.

In every cathedral and kirk, at home and beyond the seas, bishop and minister asked divine blessing on the efforts of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and his co-workers to keep Europe out of war.

In every Anglican church throughout the domains of the king-emperor, George VI., high and low, echoed "Lord, hear our prayer" in response to the archbishop of Canterbury's call for intercession.

King Prays Alone.

King George himself waited and prayed alone at Windsor castle while his ministers sought with the French premier and foreign minister for an answer to Adolf Hitler's peace terms. Queen Elizabeth prayed with Scottish ghillies at Crathie parish church.

In majestic Westminster abbey, where the empire's unknown soldier sleeps, Chamberlain's devoted wife joined a concourse of 3,000 worshipers.

Abbey Open All Night.

The dean of Westminster, Dr. Paul de Laoilliere, ordered the doors kept open all night so that all could come and pray at will.

"O God, open a way of escape from the calamity which threatens us," prayed the dean. "Whatever settlement is reached, may righteousness prevail that peace may be lasting and secure."

Throughout the empire Roman Catholic and Nonconformist churches and Salvation Army centers joined in intercession.

HOPE IN RETURN TO OBTAIN DEAL WITH NAZIS TO PROMOTE PEACE IN EUROPE

Henlein Army Fires on Frontier Post; Wounds Guard.

SELB, Germany, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Sudeten German "free corps," now numbering 10,000, early today attacked and badly damaged a Czechoslovak customs house at Neuhaus and seriously injured at least one Czech guard.

Neuhaus lies directly on the frontier about one and a fourth miles from Asch, Czechoslovakia, the home of Konrad Henlein, fugitive Sudeten German [Nazi] leader, and on the road to Behan, Germany.

Witnesses said the customs post was badly ripped by hand grenades and bullets.

Says "Freedom Is Near."

Sudeten party headquarters, established here five miles from the frontier after having been routed from Eger, Czechoslovakia, put a serious face on the affair.

At the same time Henlein, through the official German news agency, DNB, issued an appeal to his conationals in Czechoslovakia to continue to be patient because the "hour of liberation is near."

"Sudeten Germans, you still have to bear a reign of terror of Hussite-bolshevik criminals in Prague. With machine guns, tanks and cannon the Czech rulers are attempting to suppress freedom of the Sudeten Germans," the appeal said.

Resist! Henlein Appeals.

"Untold misery is the result. Yet the hour of liberation is near. Do not be discouraged, but stand firm. Steadfastly resist!

"Hundreds of thousands of Sudeten German fellow citizens are streaming into the ranks of the free corps. They are ready to sacrifice their blood and life for liberation of the homeland from Czech suppression. [Signed] Staf of the Sudeten German Free Corps."

Henlein's spokesmen here described the attack on the customs house as "the first move to harass Czechoslovaks by the newly organized free corps on German soil."

[A Czechoslovak government report said two border officials were wounded. It declared "more than 100 men in civilian dress who came from Germany" fired pistols and hurled hand grenades at the customs station at Asch. The report said the customs house was surrounded shortly after midnight. The Czechoslovak staf in the customs house, it said, did not return the fire, fearing that bullets might cross the frontier into Germany. Premier Milan Hodza was informed of the attack.]

An authorized spokesman for Henlein, who fled to Germany after Czechoslovakia decided to arrest him for treason, said the corps members ambushed two customs guards in the woods.

Czech Troops to Rescue.

Czechoslovak police and then troops came to the rescue, the spokesman said, and the Sudeten Germans retired having "obtained our object, which was to announce our existence along the entire Czechoslovak border."

He declared similar forays would continue, and intimated that one of their aims would be to reëstablish Sudeten German party headquarters on Czech soil by force.

[After Henlein's proclamation last Thursday demanding German annexation of Sudetenland, which caused the decision to arrest him for treason, the Czechoslovak government dissolved the Sudeten German party and prohibited its storm troopers.]

Asch, where Henlein lived before his flight to Germany, lies in a narrow neck of land extending into Germany and is easy prey to attack from two sides.

Corps Camps Along Border.

The existence of the "free corps" of Czechoslovak army-trained Sudeten Germans was proclaimed last night by Henlein. The corps will be uniformed, drilled, armed and organized in camps along the border to "protect" Sudeten Germans still in Czechoslovakia.

Henlein declared his followers

PRAGUE STUNNED BY LONDON EDICT; ARMY MAY FIGHT

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 19.—[Monday.]—Czechs were stunned today by news of the reported desertion of their big ally, France, and of England, who was expected to back France.

Observers debated whether enough pressure could be brought to bear to make the government give in to the Anglo-French agreement for union of the Sudeten regions with Germany and the neutralization of Czechoslovakia.

It was believed that whether this surrender is effected depends largely on the army. Until late last night, igh officers were confident they could hold Germany's troops for weeks, until France and Russia could send help. But it now appears that France is lost as an ally and with her Britain.

Haste to Be Urged.

To complete the abandonment of the democratic front for the defense of Prague against the reich, the British and French ministers, it was understood, will make immediate representations to the Czechoslovak government today, urging it to give in quickly to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands.

The Czechs' determination to resist was voiced yesterday by Premier Milan Hodza in a broadcast in which he outlined the course of the negotiations between his government and the Sudeten Germans.

He characterized these negotiations as successful and promising a peaceable settlement until they were terminated by the revolutionary outbreak. He proceeded to justify the government's suppression of this revolt. A notable feature in his speech was his failure definitly to turn the much discussed plebiscite proposition down, as other government spokesmen vehemently have done in the last few days.

Plebiscite Termed Futile.

He merely mildly declared that "what is called a plebiscite cannot at all prevent new conflicts and wipe out phychological obstacles to future collaboration of the nations in this part of Europe. Wherever the plebiscite has been useful in promoting international accord it has already been used. A plebiscite in Czechoslovakia

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 19 [Monday].—French and British ministers after three stormy conferences which lasted until an early hour today succeeded in hammering out a common policy on Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands for cession of Sudeten German territory in Czechoslovakia.

The statesmen at a final session drafted two documents. One constitutes the basis of proposals for a peaceful settlement of the dispute. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will take this document to Germany for his second interview with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, probably on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The second document is a joint note which will be presented on behalf of the two powers to the Prague government. It seeks Czechoslovakia's cooperation in procuring a settlement on peaceful lines.

In other words one document offers Hitler, about what he wants. The other puts the pressure on Czechoslovakia.

Text of Statement.

After the British and French ministers broke up their conference a communique was issued. It said:

"After a full discussion of the present international situation, representatives of the British and French governments are in complete agreement as to the policy to be adopted with a view to promoting a peaceful solution of the Czechoslovak question.

"The two governments hope that thereafter it will be possible to consider a more general settlement in the interests of European peace."

Plan General Peace Pact.

The last sentence infers that in return for the union of 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans with Pan-Germany, Hitler will agree to some general peace pact.

Proposals Are Outlined.

According to one well informed source, the proposals of Britain and France will be about as follows:

FIRST—Outright surrender to Germany without a plebiscite of all the predominantly German areas of the Czechoslovak republic. This would be preceded by an exchange of populations to protect the Czech and anti-Nazi German minorities in the border areas and Germans who now live in the interior of Czechoslovakia.

SECOND — Creation of a cantonal system of government transforming the remainder of Czechoslovakia into something like another Switzerland.

THIRD—Neutralization of Czech foreign policy and abandonment of present alliances in return for military guarantee of new frontiers by Britain, France, and possibly other great powers.

[An Associated Press dispatch said there was a report that Britain and France would propose that they, together with Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary, and Rumania, give a seven power guarantee against violation to new boundaries of the nation of the Czechs and Slovaks.]

See War Scare Fading.

The future of Czechoslovakia and perhaps in consequence the future of Europe hangs on the acceptance or rejection of the decision of France and England. Informed sources said no war is likely unless Germany insists on having one at all costs.

Disagreement was reported to have arisen between the British and the French at yesterday's conferences because of the determined stand o

Premier Edouard Daladier, the tough guy of the French cabinet.

Georges Bonnet, foreign minister, represented the French element which is willing to accept the British plan of surrendering in full to Hitler. Daladier, it appears, at first would not surrender to German threats of force. He said the French army was prepared to call Hitler's bluff or threats.

Differences between the French and British also apparently arose over the nature of direct guarantees that will be offered to President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, should he, under British and French pressure, consent to the paring off of the Germanic minority.

The French evidently insisted upon full guarantees and compensation. They, no doubt, acted on the presumption that Benes and the Czechs would consent to amputation of part of their republic.

But the Czechs have announced they would resist any plan to carve up their republic. President Benes has said his nation would fight rather than lose her present frontiers.

Get Warning From Czechs.

The British and the French at their final session which began at 10:20 o'clock last night were confronted by a stiff reminder from Prague, that Czechoslovakia would accept no responsibility for any decisions reached without being consulted. The warning was delivered by Jan Masaryk, Czech minister to London.

The French were represented at the conferences by Daladier, Bonnet, Charles Corbin, ambassador to London, and four experts. The British representatives were Chamberlain, Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary; Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary; Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of state.

The British cabinet will meet today to study the British and French decision.

Fly to Paris Today.

Daladier and Bonnet will fly to Paris this morning at 8:30 o'clock. Daladier announced that he would not go to Germany when Chamberlain meets Hitler again.

A great massmeeting of communists, independent Laborites, Liberals, trade unionists and other left wing organizations was held yesterday afternoon in Trafalgar square under the auspices of the International Peace campaign. It was addressed by Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member of parliament. She demanded a halt in the abandonment of Czechoslovakia. A resolution demanding that the British aid the Czechs if attacked by Germans was passed.

Later a noisy crowd of demonstrators marched across to Downing street. Raising clenched fists, they yelled: "Stand by the Czechs—Stop Hitler! Stop war!

Shout Anti-Nazi Slogans.

Barred from Downing street by police, the mob paraded up and down Whitehall shouting anti-German slogans. Mounted police scattered the demonstrators, who boarded buses traveling along Whitehall and screamed "Save the Czechs!"

After darkness fell foot and mounted police charged rioters with drawn batons. The trouble began when 800 communists attempted to rescue a comrade held by police. Flinging missils, the reds hurled themselves against two mounted policemen while a third guarded the prisoner in an office doorway just off Trafalgar square.

The fierceness of the rush sent one officer and horse crashing to the ground. The officer was punched and kicked. Police reënforcements rescued the officer and attacked the rioters.

Tropical Storm Moving In Toward Florida Coast

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A tropical storm roared westward through the Atlantic ocean tonight, its center approximately 450 miles north of San Juan, Puerto Rico. The weather bureau said the disturbance at 7 p. m., Chicago time, was about 900 miles east-southeast of Miami. It was moving west-northwest about 20 miles an hour. The storm is attended by hurricane winds [75 miles per hour] near the center.

A Day's Action in Sudeten Crisis

The Sudeten German "free corps" yesterday attacked a Czech customs house at Neuhaus, on the German-Czech frontier, a little more than a mile from Asch, Czechoslovakia, former home of Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader. Sudeten German refugees have established their main camp at Bayreuth, Germany, while the Sudeten party has moved its headquarters from Eger to Selb.

merely were assuming "emergency rights which nations have taken at all times."

His spokesman said 10,000 Sudeten Germans had enrolled within a few hours after the proclamation and "we expect a force of 30,000."

"Our object," he declared, "is the same as that of any legion that has to free its country. We will be like the old Irish republican army—everywhere and nowhere."

37,000 Refugees Reported.

Asked whether it was a secret that equipment came from the German government, the spokesman said, "if we had sufficient funds we could buy anywhere we wished."

Sudeten Germans said 37,000 of their people had fled from Czechoslovakia up to early today. [DNB, official German news agency, reported 84,000 Sudeten German refugees had reached Germany.]

Most of them were said to have crossed the border through woods and along bypaths. They were being cared for in 170 refugee camps supported by voluntary contributions.

The spokesmen said many leaders of the minority who have come to Germany have been scattering along the frontier for purposes of propaganda and to supervise care of the refugees.

A radio station is being built on the frontier to serve as Henlein's principal means of maintaining contact with his followers.

His movements are closely guarded. His spokesman said the "little fuehrer" makes almost daily trips into Czechoslovakia in disguise, crossing the frontier through the woods.

He is believed, however, to spend most of his time in Selb. Even his closest associates profess not to know where he is at any given time. They say they communicate with him by means of a messenger service.

Budapest Crowds Cheer for Hitler and Mussolini is inacceptable not only from a subjective point of view, but also from an objective point of view for the reason that it would create a whole series of new similar problems."

The refusal of Konrad Henlein, fugitive leader of the outlawed Sudeten German [Nazi] party to continue negotiations and his attempt at rebellion will not change the government's policy, Hodza declared.

Despite the high tension in official circles Prague crowds, beguiled by sunny weather yesterday, swarmed into the streets of the capital and gathered before football score boards and signs giving horse racing returns. The only military note was supplied by stalwart youngsters in shiny new uniforms piloting their best girls around town and basking in the general admiration the populace held for its defenders.

Premier Hodza's speech, booming from loudspeakers in the trees along downtown avenues, elicited only mild interest, and there was little of the grimness expected from a population on the brink of war.

PARIS ANTI-NAZIS ARE INFURIATED BY CZECH DEAL

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 19 [Monday].—Anti-Nazi circles in Paris are enraged by the result of the agreement which Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet made early today in London.

They characterize the deal as a cowardly surrender and betrayal of Czechoslovakia. It also is understood Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England may forgo his scheduled trip to Godesberg for a second chat with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, there being nothing further he is qualified to offer the fuehrer.

As a sop to the French for their consent to the deal, the British government is understood to have reluctantly agreed to join in the international guarantee of new frontiers envisaged for amputated and neutralized Czechoslovakia along with Germany, Poland, Hungary, Rumania, France, and Italy.

Plebiscite Reported Dropped.

The idea of a plebiscite to fix the limits of the Sudeten regions with German majorities is understood to be abandoned in view of the Anglo-French conviction that only the greatest speed in fulfilling their engagements to Hitler can avert a catastrophe.

Prague simply will be urged to yield up the German regions with the briefest delay. Czech officials already have repeatedly ruled out the idea of a plebiscite, however, and President Eduard Benes is understood to have informed Chamberlain last night that he would accept no solution reached without his consent.

Peace Party Jubilant.

No one in diplomatic circles was prepared to predict flatly that Prague will be induced to swallow its pride and accept the very solution it most bitterly opposed, or that the government, if willing to accept for the sake of peace, can maintain its position.

The "peace party" which urged yielding to Hitler's demands during the last week was jubilant at the result of the London conference, arguing that in giving up its alliance with Czechoslovakia France makes a big gain in increased solidarity with Great Britain.

The decision in favor of handing over the German districts of the republic, according to reports here, was reached in view of Chamberlain's argument that a plebiscite would serve only to inflame public opinion and keep the crisis at fever point for a prolonged period.

Soviet Is Excluded.

Under the present arrangement, after the Sudeten districts with German majorities are incorporated into the reich, the regions with German minorities will be given autonomy status within Czechoslovakia. The fact not lost in political circles here is that the soviet government is not found on the list of the powers that will be called upon to guarantee the new status of Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia's military alliance with the soviet, like that with France, also will go by the boards under the arrangement envisaged. This is an additional big victory for the Fuehrer, since it helps to isolate Moscow and removes it still further from a directive position in the continent's affairs.

ITALY'S COURSE IS CHOSEN, DUCE WARNS CZECHS

100,000 Hail Support of Rome-Berlin Axis.

TRIESTE, Italy, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini proclaimed to 100,000 cheering Fascists today that Italy's place "is already chosen" if the Czechoslovak crisis inflames Europe in a general war.

Il Duce reaffirmed Italy's adherence to the Rome-Berlin axis and repeated the Italian demand for plebiscites for the minorities of Czechoslovakia.

Many who heard him were of Germanic or Slavic nationality who became Italian citizens in the world war settlement which gave Italy Trieste and the surrounding Tyrol area, formerly part of Austria-Hungary.

Throng Boos Czechs.

Thunderous booing went up from the mass in Trieste's big public square when Mussolini spoke of the country "which wished to be great Czechoslovakia and which today reveals its organic inconsistency."

Il Duce declared that the Czechoslovak issue was the world's most momentous problem.

He called the Jewish question Italy's most pressing domestic concern and declared "We shall adopt necessary solutions." He linked racialism to the necessity of stressing Italian superiority for the sake of empire.

Turning from the Czech problem, Il Duce told his cheering listeners of Italy's determination to hold Trieste, which was the Austro-Hungarian empire's chief seaport before the world war.

Mussolini, master showman, made a dramatic entry into the city. The destroyer Camicia Nera, which brought him from Venice, steamed at full speed, smoke streaming from her funnels, almost to the waterfront square where he spoke.

He climbed the tribune, received the deafening ovation, and plunged into his speech.

Plebiscite Called Solution.

"The solution to the problem which this moment agitates Europe," he exclaimed, "has only one name: Plebiscites."

[Almost at the same time that Mussolini was speaking Premier Milan Hodza of Czechoslovakia broadcast from Prague his government's refusal to hold a plebiscite in the Sudeten German areas. "No matter how it might result," Hodza said, "it would solve nothing and it would bring about a succession of problems similar to that which we now face."]

Il Duce demanded "plebiscites for all nationalities which demand them."

"But," he added, "there is something else to be said, and it is that at a certain moment events become an avalanche and for that reason we must hurry if we want to avoid disorders and complications.

"The idea of making haste in solving the problem must have been shared by the British prime minister in leaving London as a flying messenger of peace, since any delay does not hasten the solution but brings on a fatal collision.

"This solution, despite the campaign of Moscow, is already penetrating the heart of European peoples. We hope that in these last hours a peaceful solution is reached.

"We wish also that if this is not possible the resulting conflict be limited and circumscribed, but if this does not happen and a lineup of universal character is brought on for and against Prague, let it be known that Italy's place is already chosen."

EUROPE POISONED BY CZECH TUMOR, DECLARES HITLER

'Oppression' Must Cease, Interviewer Told.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The London Daily Mail tonight quoted Adolf Hitler as telling an interviewer that "this Czech trouble has got to be ended once and for all, and ended now."

The interview, by G. Ward Price, was published under a Berchtesgaden, Germany, dateline. Price frequently has been given access to Hitler and Premier Mussolini for interviews.

"The Czechs say they cannot hold a plebiscite because such a measure is not provided for in their constitution," the Daily Mail quoted Hitler.

Hitler Charges Oppression.

"To me, their constitution seems to provide for one thing only—which is that 7,000,000 Czechs shall oppress 8,000,000 of minority peoples."

Asked his impression of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's flying visit to Berchtesgaden last Thursday, the Daily Mail said Hitler replied: "I am convinced of Mr. Chamberlain's sincerity and good will."

"The Czechoslovak-Sudeten German situation is a tumor which is poisoning the whole European organism," Hitler was quoted as saying. "If it were allowed to go on it would infest international relations until they broke down in fatal collapse.

"This condition has lasted for twenty years. No one can calculate what it has cost the peoples of Europe in that time.

Describes Growth of Air Forces.

"It was the existence of Czechoslovakia as an ally of soviet Russia, thrust forward into the very heart of Germany, that forced me to create a great German air force. That in turn led to France and Britain increasing their own air fleets.

"Do you think I like being obliged to stop my great building and development schemes to send 500,000 German workmen to construct defense works along our western front.

"But while Czech oppression of the German minority keeps Europe at fever heat I have to be ready for whatever may come.

"I have studied the Maginot line [France's fortifications on the German frontier] and learned much from it. But we have built something better still and which will stand against any force in the world, if, in the event of our being attacked, we chose to remain on the defensive.

"All this is madness, for no one in Germany dreams of attacking France.

"We harbor no resentment against France. Nor does any German want war with Britain."

"Herr Gott!" the newspaper said Hitler exclaimed, raising his voice to an indignant shout, "what couldn't I do in Germany and for Germany if it were not for this infernal Czech tyranny over a few million Germans? But it must stop. Stop it shall."

MORE THAN 10 MILLION MEN UNDER ARMS IN WAR MENACED EUROPE

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—An estimated total of more than 10,000,000 men are under arms in Europe prepared to fight.

The figures, as given by official or unofficial sources, follow:

France, 2,000,000; Germany, 1,000,000; soviet Russia, 2,000,000; Czechoslovakia, 800,000 to 1,000,000; Italy, 450,000, and Great Britain, less than 200,000 with scattered reserves, such as 20,000 troops in Palestine.

It was estimated that Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Switzerland have enough soldiers in barracks and other places to push the total over the 10,000,000 mark.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR HITLER SEEN BY NAZI LEADERS

New German-British Parley May Be Delayed.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—[Monday.]—German leaders here early today saw another victory for Reichsfuehrer Hitler as they read the statement issued in London after the conclusion of a conference among British and French statesmen.

The Germans believed that the vaguely worded statement meant that Great Britain and France had surrendered to Hitler's demands in the Czechoslovak-Sudeten German crisis.

News received in Berlin indicated that a conference between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Hitler which was scheduled to take place in Godesberg on the Rhine tomorrow [Tuesday] may be postponed until Wednesday or Thursday.

The conference was arranged last Thursday when Chamberlain flew from London to Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat. At that time the Fuehrer was believed to have placed his final demands before the British prime minister.

Picked Guards Rallied.

In Berlin and Brandenburg units of the Schutz Staffel [picked guards] left Saturday night for a "rally with an unknown destination."

The Schutz Staffelmen left Berlin on motorcycles and rode to the suburbs. They dismounted there. Friends who accompanied them said the guards were carried away in motor lorries of the military six wheel type. The Schutz Staffelmen were told to leave their motorcycles in the suburbs.

"You will be back in a week or a little later," their commanders said.

Most of the Schutz Staffelmen are excellent shots, trained to handle light and heavy machine guns. They are trained especially for street fighting. They assist both the police and the army.

Children to Work in Fields.

In Berlin large groups of soldiers are quartered in private buildings and schools. Many school children have been told they must be ready to go to the country in the next few weeks "to help with the potato harvest and also to vacate the schools that will be needed to house the reservists."

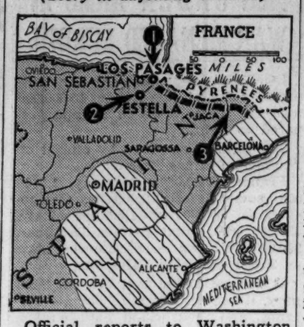
Proprietors of garages, barber shops, stores, and other business establishments are complaining bitterly that they are badly handicaped because orders to join the colors or to serve in the labor army are taking away their best employés.

WINDOW SMASHERS STEAL $140.

Burglars who smashed a plate glass window stole $140 in the cigar store of Samuel Chodash, at 301 Washington boulevard early yesterday.

Germans in Spain

(Story in adjoining column.)



Official reports to Washington say that Germany has established a submarine base at Los Pasages (1) and an underground airdrome at Estella (2) in northern Spain. Should France be drawn into war with Germany, observers declare that Spain would constitute one front (3), because of Germany's foothold there with the Franco rebels. The ruled area is held by Loyalists, while the shaded area is under the rebels.

RUSSIA BACKS CZECH REJECTION OF A PLEBISCITE

MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini's speech today at Trieste, Italy, in which he demanded plebiscites for the minorities in Czechoslovakia, occasioned no surprise here. It was expected he would make some such pronouncement.

On the other hand, the speech of Czechoslovakia's premier, Milan Hodza, at Prague, rejecting a plebiscite as a solution to the Czechoslovak-Sudeten crisis, was welcomed as further evidence that the Czechoslovaks realized their only salvation lay in firm resistance to the demands.

The soviet press continued to attack Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain.

The soviet navy newspaper, Red Fleet, poked fun at "bourgeois journalists," which it said have been trying to make a hero of Chamberlain.

COLD PUTS CRIMP IN JARECKI DAY OUTING AT PARK

The cold weather cut speechmaking short at the celebration of Jarecki day at Riverview park yesterday.

County Judge Jareckl, a candidate for reëlection, in whose honor the outing and picnic had been planned, thanked those present for attending. State's Attorney Courtney said he and Judge Jarecki had been friends for years and that he considered it an honor to support the judge for reelection. Clayton F. Smith, president of the Cook county board, presided and introduced a number of other aspirants for county offices.

REPORT GERMANY REMOVING ARMS IT SENT TO SPAIN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—German withdrawal of some war equipment from Spain or at least from the Spanish war front was reported in confidential advices reaching diplomatic quarters here over the week-end.

The movement was understood in those quarters to be accompanied by a speeding up of shipments of Spanish ore from Bilbao, Spain, upon which Germany has drawn heavily for raw materials for the last eighteen months.

In addition to a new type rapidfire, electrically controled artillery piece, some airplanes, particularly the Messerschmidt and Heinkel craft, have disappeared from the front recently. These reports linked the development with decreased offensive activity by the Franco forces.

Germans Provide Equipment.

German participation in the Spanish conflict has been confined largely to providing equipment and munitions and technical assistance, informed persons said. They added there had been no authentic reports of German infantry or other line troops in Spain.

Should war come and France be drawn into a conflict with Germany military observers here regard it as a certainty that Spain would constitute one front because of Germany's foothold along France's southern borders.

Official reports reaching Washington state that Germany has established an extensive submarine base at Los Pasages, east of San Sebastian on the Bay of Biscay, and less than ten miles from France.

An Underground Airdrome.

A huge underground airdrome with stores and reserve equipment likewise is reported at Estella, about thirty miles south of San Sebastian and correspondingly close to the French frontier. German siege guns capable of halting all shipping have at various times been reported established at Ceuta, directly across from Gibraltar.

The opinion is expressed here that France, in the event of war, promptly would dispatch an expeditionary force into the peninsula in an attempt to drive out the Germans and end the Spanish war quickly.

SUSPEND 2 POLICE ROBBED OF STARS IN BOOKIE JOINT

Policemen Anton Topinka and Frank Johnstone of the Englewood station, who were robbed of their cash, stars, and revolvers Saturday in a cigar store at 533½ West 69th street, were suspended yesterday. Their suspension was ordered by Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, when it was learned a handbook was being operated behind the cigar store.

Topinka, a veteran detective, was not on duty at the time.

The policemen denied knowing there was a handbook in the rear.

PARIS JEWS FILL SYNAGOGUES TO PRAY FOR PEACE

PARIS, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The capital's Jewish population, responding to a call by Maurice Liber, grand rabbi of France, flocked to synagogues today to pray for an end to persecution of Jews and to the perils threatening world peace.

Liber said the grand rabbis of Great Britain and Palestine had issued similar calls and that prayers also were being said in other countries, including the United States.

M. J. Weill, grand rabbi of Paris, exhorted his congregation to be "courageous and patient."

HOSPITAL OF U. S. BAPTISTS HIT BY FIVE JAP BOMBS

No Casualties Reported; Damage Put at $50,000.

CANTON, China, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A bombing attack by nine Japanese warplanes Saturday in which five direct hits were made on the Stout Memorial hospital, operated by the American Baptist mission at Wuchow, eastern Kwangsi province, was reported today in dispatches to the United State consulate general here.

The hospital staf suffered no casualties, the dispatches said, but damage was estimated at $50,000. The hospital is in charge of two American doctors, Robert E. Beddoe and William L. Wallace, who reported it was clearly marked with American flags.

The Chinese Central News Agency said thirty-one Japanese planes took part in attacks on Wuchow and other extensive raids throughout Kwangsi province.

Jap Attack Progresses.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Japanese columns driving westward to cut vital railway lines north and south of Hankow in preparation for the final assault on China's provisional capital made further progress today through yielding Chinese lines.

Strong tank and artillery units and air squadrons aided the infantry columns both north and south of the Yangtze river.

Driving Toward Loshan.

The Japanese, having captured Shangcheng and Hwangchwan, the latter only sixty miles east of the Peiping-Hankow railway, were reported driving toward Loshan, thirty miles nearer their goal, Sinyang, on the railway, 100 miles north of Hankow.

South of the Yangtze Japanese forces from Juichang were reported to have driven into Hupeh province and captured Chuchuling, a village on the road to Yangsin, the immediate objective eighty miles southeast of Hankow.

Two Men Burned by Gas Explosion in Their Room

Two men were burned, one seriously, early today in a gas explosion in their room at 12 East Chicago avenue. They are Vincent Pink, 43 years old, an elevator operator, and Stewart Neiss, 52, a salesman. Pink accidentially disconnected the hose connected to their gas heater and later lighted a match to see to reconnect the hose. The explosion followed. Pink was taken to Passavant hospital. Neiss was burned about the legs.

Loyal to France

[Acme Photo.]

Sultan Sidi Mohammed, who announced in French Morocco yesterday that he and all his subjects would be loyal to France if she became involved in war.

RABAT, French Morocco, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Sultan Sidi Mohammed announced today that he and all his subjects would be on the side of France if she became involved in a European war.

Morocco is divided into the French zone, which has nearly 6,000,000 native Moslems; the Spanish zone, which has nearly 750,000 natives, and the Tangier zone, which has more than 36,000 native Moslems.

The sultan's authority nominally at least extends to natives of Spanish Morocco, now held by the Spanish insurgents, and Tangier, as well as those of French Morocco.

His announcement was considered important, authoritative sources said, because it might induce natives in the Spanish zone to rise against the insurgents in event of a French war with Germany.

LEAGUE IS ASKED TO TAKE CARE OF POLE EMIGRANTS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Poland has asked the league of nations, it was learned tonight, to take charge of thousands of prospective emigrants, mostly Jews, which the Warsaw government is anxious to move outside the country. Delegates who attended a closed meeting of the league's refugee committee yesterday said that Tytus Komarnicki, the Polish delegate, asked for the appointment of a special league committee to move this group out of Poland. He said it made little difference to Warsaw where the emigrants went, so long as they received the league's help in leaving Poland.

G. O. P. CONFIDENT OF PENN VICTORY DESPITE SPENDING

Millions Poured Into State to Aid Democrats.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—On nearly any highway in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania these days motorists cannot go for more than a half mile without running into red flag warnings of men at work. These men are a part of the vast pay roll army recruited by Gov. George H. Earle and the Democratic organization for the fall election campaign.

Gov. Earle, senatorial nominee, heads the ticket which is doing battle with a revitalized Republican party. G. O. P. leaders were on the ropes a year ago, but today are confident of victory. They base their prediction on the waning strength of President Roosevelt and on revelations of wholesale graft within the Earle administration.

The Republicans believe the voters at last have come to realize that Earle's loud cries for "liberalism" mean a liberal cutting up of the taxpayers' money for the political ring at the statehouse.

Rival Factions Battle.

A legislative committee, controled by Earle and appointed to supersede a grand jury investigation, will continue its hearings next week into the charges of corruption, extortion, and bribery which were of the Democrats' own making. Rival factions of the party hurled the accusations at each other during the spring primary.

Pennsylvania is more than a local battleground. The populous Keystone state with its thirty-six electoral votes in a major objective in Mr. Roosevelt's political drive for the future.

So the red flag on the highway is the symbol of the campaign which the President is waging here with his proconsul, Gov. Earle. Part of the highway funds are supplied by the federal government. Thousands of per diem or temporary workers have been hired for road work.

But highway funds are only a drop in the bucket. The Washington spenders are pouring 300 million dollars of "pump priming" funds into the state during this campaign. Seventy-one millions go to Pittsburgh alone.

Senator Joseph F. Guffey, nominal head of the Democratic campaign, recently sent out a letter soliciting funds from WPA pay rollers.

Add Thousands to Pay Roll.

The adding of thousands to the pay roll and the increasing pressure on all jobholders has resulted in some gains in Democratic registrations, but the Republicans still hold an enrolment lead of some 100,000 votes.

The spark plug on the Republican ticket is Superior Court Judge Arthur James, the nominee for governor, a vigorous campaigner who started his political career as a breaker boy in the mines.

James is opposed by Charles Alvin Jones, a politically obscure Pittsburgh lawyer who was picked by Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence.

In the senatorial race the incumbent, Senator James J. [Puddler Jim] Davis, is seeking reëlection in the contest with Earle.

Gen. Beck Still Chief of German Staf, Attaches Say

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Foreign military attaches returning from East Prussian maneuvers of the German army said today they attended a reception given in their honor Friday night at Koenigsberg by Gen. Ludwig Beck. They said the invitations designated Gen. Beck as chief of the general staf, thereby setting at rest rumors that he no longer retained his pivotal place in the German defense force.

TROUBLED PALESTINE LIFTS VOICE IN PRAYER FOR PEACE OF WORLD

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Troubled Palestine prayed today for the peace of the world.

At the request of the archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, special peace services were conducted in churches throughout the strife torn Holy Land. Jews observed a fast day and attended services in all synagogues.

The Venerable Weston Henry Stewart, archdeacon in Palestine, Syria, and Trans-Jordan, struck the keynote of the day's prayers.

"At a time when Europe seems nearer to war than ever since 1914," he told a congregation at St. George's Anglican church, "men of all faiths will appeal to the Creator to aid and uphold those who labor for peace."

ANNAM EMPEROR ASSURES FRANCE OF HIS LOYALTY

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Emperor Bao Dai of Annam assured France today of his empire's "profound attachment and indefectible devotion to the great protector nation."

The emperor, whose domain embraces 57,939 square miles with a population of 4,933,000, sent a message to the French governor-general of Indo-China expressing the loyalty of himself and his subjects.

He asked that "at this moment, when international tension is aggravated in the occident and unites all French energies in one body," the message be sent to the French government at Paris.

AFTER A FASHION NO. 4

By CALEB

HAVING DEVOTED articles to the story of style through the ages, and to Paris as fashion arbiter of long standing, we round out the series with the matter of how our buyers choose the merchandise we will offer here.

While most American communities see eye to eye in major matters of style, each has certain individual tastes and needs to be studied, analyzed and supplied. The many people who buy for us the various items of apparel and accessories that make up our showings have some of the most exacting assignments in the business.

These buyers of ours must feel the pulse of their clientele. Seated in a Paris salon at some great fashion opening, whatever our stylist discovers must be seen in terms of her particular customers at home. She must know intimately their social life, their business needs, their preference in sports. Of course she often buys original creations with some individual in mind—but in most instances she chooses for the entire group of customers.

For instance—Chicago women have long shown a special interest in creations for informal dinner wear; costumes to be worn at evening affairs with a distinct touch of formality—but simple enough to be appropriate if an escort is not in formal attire.

In sports apparel, our buyers know that Chicago and adjacent communities demand practicality as well as smartness and effect. French designers pay small attention to sports costume. They think largely in terms of chic spectators. England's sports apparel is ruled by tradition and rigid custom. But here—there is no substitute for convenience, no feature to equal practical, sturdy usefulness.

In Europe, evening affairs frequently overshadow the day. In our community a woman is apt to give much more attention to a wardrobe for sports, for business, luncheon, shopping, bridge and tea. Of late many of our decisions on the designing of costumes have been documented by careful surveys in which groups of representative women have expressed their preferences.

To the years of intimate acquaintance with our community we add all the intelligence, concentrated effort and abundant resources of our organization that can be utilized to enable us to make ours the most representative and most perfectly adapted showing of smart fashions to be found anywhere.

PURGE DISASTER HEARTENS G. O. P. HOPE FOR GAINS

Democrats Get Setbacks in Primary Elections.

ministration, Senator Tydings was nominated by a landslide over Representative David J. Lewis, 100 per cent Roosevelt man.

The failure of the senatorial purge, in view of this record, has convinced the Republican high command that its party will make such substantial gains in November as to point the way to victory in 1940. Senator John G. Townsend Jr. of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, says the G. O. P. candidates have a good chance to win in thirteen states and predicts a minimum senate gain of six seats. The thirteen states are California, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, and Utah.

4 PRIMARIES TOMORROW

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The turbulent primary campaign of 1938 ends Tuesday with balloting in four states, any one of which could be pivotal in November or in 1940. These four states are Wisconsin, New Jersey, Massachusetts and New York.

Another test of the President's effort to purge anti-New Dealers from the Democratic party is involved. Yet political attention centers more on New York's nominating conventions the following week than on what happens tomorrow in the party voting in these four states.

Both parties name candidates for two seats in the senate and for governor in New York in conventions between Sept. 28 and 30. The next governor of New York will be selected then; and it is among governors or former governors of New York that both parties have found much of their presidential nomination timber.

New York Is Richest Prize.

Casting 47 of the nation's 531 electoral votes for President, New York is the richest political prize. Around it has turned for generations the major political strategy of both parties. In the nominations to be made in convention in New York a week hence, the finger of destiny may point toward the next President of the United States.

That lessens the relative importance of the outcome tomorrow, in New York City's 16th congressional district, the famous "Gashouse" district, of the final phase of Presiden Roosevelt's effort to force a liberal-conservative issue into selected Democratic primaries.

In this contest the President has stated openly his opposition to the renomination of Representative John J. O'Connor, eight term veteran and chairman of the powerful house rules committee.

Holds Key Committee Post.

Conservatism, and betrayal of the New Deal, formed the charge hurled at O'Connor by Mr. Roosevelt. It was the New Yorker's key position as rules chairman that lifted him above the ruck of house candidates in White House maneuvering, and made him a target of Roosevelt wrath.

Whether he is reëlected in November with Republican help is of small importance to the administration.

Whether he is renominated by "Gashouse" district Democrats tomorrow is the pivot on which his return in the next congress as rules chairman turns. And the President's defeats elsewhere, in all of his efforts to sweep out of office Democratic senators he called conservatives, have raised discouraging portents for the administration as to this last test of the party purge.

MRS. BARBARA BIRD.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Barbara Bird, 20 years old, blonde wife of Charles Bird, midwest desperado captured here recently, was released from jail today after serving a thirty day sentence and was immediately taken into custody for federal officers. After a visit with her husband in the Maryland penitentiary, where he is serving a forty-five year sentence for a series of holdups, Mrs. Bird was returned to jail. Police said she would be taken to Cleveland on a federal warant charging she attempted to smuggle a pistol into the jail where Bird escaped about a year ago.

HOUSING PROJECT MEANS $142,032 TAX LOSS TO CITY

The size of the tax burden to be saddled upon Chicago taxpayers by another of the Chicago Housing authority's tax free projects was revealed yesterday by Assessor John S. Clark.

The project, known as the South Park Gardens, is between 37th and 39th streets, extending from South Park to Cottage Grove avenues. A survey made by the assessor's technical and land departments shows that when complete it will have an estimated full value of $4,397,154 and an assessed valuation of $1,626,947.

Takes Property Off Pay List.

The property taken out of taxation had an assessed valuation of $425,925.

"If the county could replace an assessed valuation of $425,925 with one of $1,626,947," Mr. Clark said, "the advantage to taxpayers and the local governments would be apparent. The project should in all justice be treated on that basis."

But the county, he explained, will receive no taxes on the property. Instead, under government regulations, the project will pay a small service fee for police and fire protection, use of schools, garbage removal, and other civic services.

Lose $142,032 in Taxes.

The amount of taxes which would be assessed against private property similar to that of the housing project would be $142,032.47, the assessor said.

The project, to cost $10,000,000, will provide 1,600 family units.

SKULL FRACTURED IN FALL; DIES.

Edward Kennedy, 65 years old, 1124 Wilson avenue, died in the Lake View hospital yesterday of a skull fracture suffered a few hours earlier when he fell in front of 1056 Wilson avenue.

LYONS SIGNALS FOR FULL SPEED IN G. O. P. DRIVE

Downstate campaigning at full speed will be resumed today by Richard J. Lyons and his associates on the Republican state ticket.

This week's engagements include a number of meetings with women's Republican clubs. The first of these is with the women's organizations of the 20th congressional district at Bloomington this afternoon. The candidates present besides Lyons are to be State Senator Simon E. Lantz and Stephen A. Day, nominees for congressmen at large; William R. McCauley, for state treasurer; George E. Lambur Jr., for clerk of the Supreme court, and Wiley B. Garvin for superintendent of public instruction.

This evening Lyons, Garvin, and Lambur will speak at a mass meeting at Danville. At the same hour Lantz, Day, and McCauley will speak at Mattoon.

The second of the series of women's organization meetings will be held at Springfield tomorrow afternoon with all the nominees on hand. In the evening the Lyons trio will go to Alton and the Lantz group will speak at Shelbyville.

BOAT HITS RIVER LOCK ON LAKE RESCUE ERRAND

Other Craft Battered by Storm at Night.

The new lock at the mouth of the Chicago river almost thwarted the rescue yesterday of ten persons aboard a disabled motor cruiser which was being smashed against pilings by the storm on Lake Michigan.

Capt. J. O. Anderson.

The coast guard made the rescue, but not before the rescue craft had crashed into the east gate of the lock and its captain, J. O. Anderson, was painfully injured.

Several other small craft were wrecked by the storm and two large vessels, a sand freighter and oil tanker, had to ride out the wind and waves in the open lake rather than chance passing through the lock.

Towed Into River.

The motor cruiser rescued was the Nyade II., owned by J. W. Kaufman, 356 North State street. It was towed into the river to State street and the only casualty was Capt. Anderson, who was bruised and cut.

The lock into which Capt. Anderson's boat crashed was recently completed and put into service because of a ruling by the United States Supreme court preventing Chicago from diverting lake water for sanitation purposes.

The storm reached its peak before dawn yesterday. The coast guard rescue crews had made several trips out into the lake. In the yacht harbor south of Randolph street several yachts broke from their moorings. Two were destroyed by smashing against piers. They were the Beverly, owned by C. J. Lyngby, and the Springtime, owned by Glen Nylund.

The Nyade II. broke its rudder and was beating against the city protection pier between Navy pier and the lock. The coast guard station is inside the lock about 1,000 feet.

Crash Against Closed Gate.

"We thought both east and west gates were opened for us when we went to the rescue of the Nyade II. Instead, the east gates were not open and we ran smack into the gate."

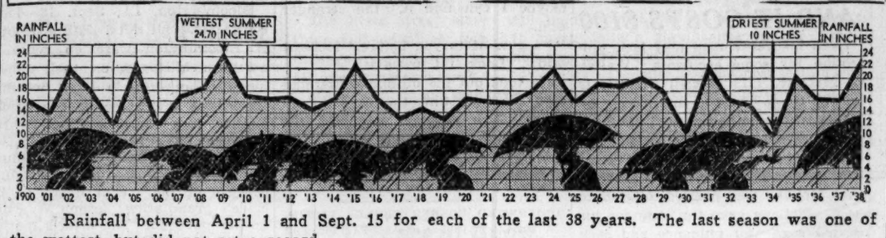
Only one ship ventured through the lock while the storm was at its height, Capt. Anderson said.

For the safety of human lives it may be necessary to move the coast guard station outside the lock, Capt. Anderson said. Until that is done it is planned to inaugurate some kind of an alarm system so the locks will open more speedily for the coast guardsmen. At present a delay of as much as 15 minutes is possible.

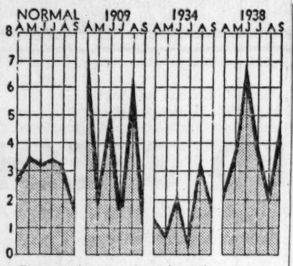
Two Killed in Crash of French Military Plane

ROUEN, France, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A French military plane crashed in a swamp near Rouen during a thunderstorm today, killing its two occupants, Capt. Albert Plusquellec and Capt. Abel Colin, attachés of the air ministry.

Chicago's Summer Rainfall for 38 Years



Rainfall between April 1 and Sept. 15 for each of the last 38 years. The last season was one of the wettest, but did not set a record.



Comparison of normal summer rainfall, with the maximum during the period, 1909; the minimum, 1934, and this year's figure. Summer months are designated by their initial letters.

It probably seemed to you that last summer was the wettest you could remember. If you are under 30, you were right

Not since 1909, when the rainfall from April 1 to Sept. 15 totaled 24.7 inches, has Chicago been as wet. Worse still were the first fifteen days of September, when 4.79 inches of rain fell, a dampness exceeded only since 1900.

Altogether since April 1, 23.77 inches of rain have drenched Chicago. The same amount fell in 1905, making it a tie for the second wettest summer. The normal rainfall is 17.69 inches. Self-styled weather prophets say—"Well, I'm glad this rain is over. Now we can have a little dry spell." Seasoned observers say this seldom happens. Rain begets rain; dryness begets dryness.

Influenza Attack Keeps Princess Juliana in Bed

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 18.—Crown Princess Juliana still is in bed with an influenza attack which she suffered during Queen Wilhelmina's recent visit here. Today's bulletin, however, reports progress.

YOUNG ROBBER IS SHOT DURING BATTLE IN CELL

A young prisoner was wounded seriously and a policeman was nicked in a battle yesterday in a basement cell in the River Forest village hall. The prisoner, Anthony Mydra, 22 years old, 1027 North Hermitage avenue, was shot in the side and in the right wrist when he tried to escape.

Mydra was arrested by a River Forest police squad after he had driven a car through two stoplights. A toy pistol was found on him, but he said it was for his little brother. The River Forest police station was crowded, so Mydra was taken to the basement lockup in the village hall.

There Mydra grabbed Policeman Walter Gray's club. Policemen Robert Carr and Harold Niles leaped forward to stop him. Gray fired two shots. Both hit Mydra, but one bullet richocheted and wounded Niles slightly. Police traced the car in which Mydra was arrested. They found it had been taken in a holdup.

DEFEAT OF C. I. O. IN LABOR FIGHT CERTAIN: GREEN

The Committee for Industrial Organization is certain to be defeated in its battle with the American Federation of Labor. William Green, federation president, so declared yesterday before the fifth annual convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the Du Sable High school. The brotherhood is the only international trade union of Negro workers in this country.

"In the Civil war, the secessionists lost," Green asserted. "This minority [C. I. O.] led by one autocratic man, has seceded and left the house of labor. History will repeat itself. The C. I. O. will lose its fight to disrupt the ranks of labor."

Green declared that the federation's aims were to promote tolerance, break down prejudices, and establish workers on sound economic bases. The C. I. O., he said, promotes discord, destruction, and hate.

NEW AIR BASES IN PACIFIC AREA ON U. S. PROGRAM

Officers Making Survey Will Report Soon.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A recommendation that this country bulwark its defense with new destroyers, submarine, mine, and air bases along the continental and insular coasts is expected in naval circles from a special committee of experts now studying the question.

Admiral Arthur Hepburn.

The five man committee, headed by Rear Admiral Arthur Hepburn, is hastening its investigations so as to have a comprehensive report ready for congress in January. The group now is in Porto Rico.

On its return to the United States it probably will go to Alaska to look into the situation there. At present the navy has only a fleet air base at Sitka, and a more extensive series of bases in northwestern territory is contemplated.

The investigating board was appointed by Secretary of the Navy Swanson.

OVER 24 MILLION ENJOY BEACHES; NEW RECORD SET

More swimmers than ever before flocked to Chicago's lake beaches and swimming pools last summer. There were 24,155,189 of them [including sun bathers who didn't go in the water]. Add 4,308,300 persons who attended outdor events in Burnham and Grant parks, and that makes a grand total of 28,463,489 who visited the city's chief recreational spots between June 15 and Sept. 15.

These figures were made public yesterday. They show, officials said, that Chicago ranks high as a recreational center. George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, said that every summer more outsiders are coming here because they find Chicago offers both the benefits of a big city and the attractions of a resort center.

"As for Chicagoans, they are learning to find relaxation and enjoyment during the summer within a few blocks of their homes," he said.

ADVENTURES IN ADVERTISING

.... The imagination of a boy and a hobby later brought the development of the biggest business of its kind in the world, dealing in old coins. This advertising has brought millions of inquiries regarding coins. We quote, with pardonable pride, an extract from this advertiser's letter to us:

"My idea of an advertising agency is one who intelligently studies the client's problem. You have done this most admirably and I want to express my appreciation."

Let us give you our ideas how you can use Advertising to increase your sales.

STRANGER HELPS HIM LOOK FOR CAR AND IT COSTS $100

Even insurance men may lack protection for some accidents. Walter G. McLane, 7119 Merrill avenue, is one of them. In the first place, he forgot where he had parked his automobile downtown. It was early morning.

A courteous young man, noticing that McLane was puzzled, offered to help. McLane gave the stranger his license card for guidance and each walked away in search of the car. They met ten minutes later at Wabash avenue and Jackson boulevard. Neither had found the car.

"Give me your license card and maybe I can find it," the stranger said.

"I gave it to you before," McLane said. "Look, I'll prove it."

He took out his billfold containing $100 to show him the card wasn't there. The stranger snatched the money and ran.

When McLane told police his trouble, they helped him find his car, but he's still out the $100.

UNIFORMED ROBBER CHOKES VICTIM.

A strongarm robber choked Paul Schmidt, 18 West Delaware place, until he surrendered $9, a wrist watch, and a sapphire ring early yesterday. The robber wore an army uniform and high laced boots, Schmidt said.

Miss Bohrer, Descendant of Former Gov. Fifer, Wed

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hooton of Bloomington were en route to northern Michigan on their honeymoon today after a quiet wedding service at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, yesterday. The bride was Miss Gertrude Bohrer. There was no music nor social celebration of the wedding, because of the recent death of the bride's grandfather, Joseph W. Fifer, former governor. The bride's mother and brother, and the two sons of the bridegroom witnessed the ceremony. Mr. Hooton is an architect.

A LITTLE MAN SET TO WORK

Jack Frost's his name. And today—to celebrate the Fall Opening on State Street and our own readiness for the new season—there's a paintea forest in our State Street windows!

A fantasy forest of twisted limbs, massive foliage, and little peak-capped Jack Frosts, busy with palette and brush. A flaming forest of rich crimsons and purples. A sighing forest of wistful yellows and greens. They flank our main entrance, then—like the rush of a strong Fall wind—sweep, north and south, to their splendid crescendo.

Come, revel in color! If you're a woman you'll quicken to the beautiful clothes these windows show. Clothes that rival the spectrum to proclaim the new, resonant importance of color in the fashion picture for Fall. And if you're a child you'll know, truer than any grown-up, all about Jack Frost. And if you're a man—mere man with a bright necktie—maybe you'll think of John McCutcheon's well-loved cartoon, and say, under your breath, "How purty!"

SEATTLE LAWYER WILL BE CHOSEN HEAD OF LEGION

150,000 in Los Angeles for Convention.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Stephen F. Chadwick, Seattle attorney, today was assured election as national commander of the American Legion when his two remaining opponents withdrew from the race.

Stephen F. Chadwick. [A. P. Wire Photo.]

Mile J. Warner of Toledo, O., and Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, Mich., withdrew after a closed session of leaders. Lynn U. Stambaugh of Fargo, N. D., withdrew Saturday.

With Chadwick unopposed and Chicago apparently assured of the 1939 convention, the main fireworks seemed to have exploded.

Warner, in announcing his withdrawal, said he was doing so "with the definite understanding my hat is in the ring next year."

The convention officially opens at 9 a. m. tomorrow for the first business session. The official estimate placed more than 150,000 overseas-hatted visitors in town.

BUS LINE STARTS SERVING CITIES ON NORTH SHORE

A new bus line started local transportation service yesterday in Waukegan and North Chicago. The Willett company, operating under a temporary permit issued by the Illinois commerce commission, put eight buses on the streets and maintained a ten minute schedule during the day.

The street car service furnished the cities by the North Shore electric railroad was discontinued Aug. 16 when 1,000 employés went on strike and tied up the entire system. The strike, which threw 300 additional employés out of work, is still far from settlement. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the road, is to ask federal court this week for instructions in dealing with the striking unions. The men had protested a 15 per cent wage cut.

CAVALRYMEN OF OLD FIGHTING TO THE END IN DEFENSE OF HORSE

Convinced that nothing will ever replace the horse, seventy-five veterans of the Third United States cavalry gathered at the Hotel Lincoln yesterday for their annual reunion.

The veterans' association, which includes members from every state in the Union, was organized in 1932. Its reunions consist wholly of tales of the feats of the historic regiment, organized more than 100 years ago.

Phineas S. Towne of Takoma Park, Md., who enlisted in 1875 and served five years as an Indian fighter, was the oldest veteran in attendance. Tall and rugged, with twinkling blue eyes, he is 81, but looks 60.

And he is sure, as are all the veterans, headed by Jacob R. Wolf of Cumberland, Md., that modern warfare, be it ever so strange, can never wholly eliminate the horse.

STATE ST. STORES WILL HOLD FALL OPENINGS TODAY

The State street stores will hold their fall openings today to mark Chicago's participation in national retail demonstration week.

More than 70,000 employés of the retail stores between Lake and Congress streets were busy over the week-end arranging new window displays, the State Street council reported. Many stores also underwent interior decorating.

The fall opening will continue all week. The prime objective, explained David Mayer Jr., president of the council, is to demonstrate the retailer's significance in the general economic scheme.

The mile-long business section along State street, the council asserted, represents the world's largest aggregation of retail stores. Its stock of merchandise, the council says, is the most complete in the world.

MEI-MEI WARMS UP TO PUBLIC AS WEATHER COOLS

You may have thought yesterday too cool for September comfort, but Mei-Mei, the baby giant panda at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield, seemed happy for the first time since May.

In fact, Mei-Mei yesterday suddenly realized she has a public, a factor she has shamefully ignored heretofore. Instead of sleeping all day on her log, a listless, lazy bundle of black and white fur, she capered and cavorted with glee.

"She's going great guns," Robert Bean, assistant director, said. "She's full of pep, and it must be the weather. It can't get too cold to please her."

Mei-Mei's neighbors, the three baby gorillas, went into reverse action. They sat and shivered, huddled into tense balls, until the glass windows were replaced on their large cages, which now may be heated.

Boys Steal Tavern Cash Box and $182; Confess

Reinhold Kraus, 16 years old, and George Jarzonbek, 15, both of Mount Prospect, found the little strong box in Neimeyer's tavern, Elmhurst and Rand roads, near Mount Prospect, too great a temptation yesterday. They saw it while sweeping out the place, took it home, and smashed it open. Inside was $182. Lieut. Harry Andel of the Morton Grove county highway police suspected and arrested the boys. They confessed.

THE BRITISH DECISION.

At Versailles, when the boundaries of the newly created country of Czechoslovakia were being determined, it was an open question whether to add the Sudeten area to Germany. There was support for exactly that in the United States and Great Britain, where it was being urged that minority peoples should be allowed to determine for themselves their national affiliation. Twenty years ago there was even some advocacy among the Czech leaders of ceding a portion of German Bohemia to Germany, and they proposed it at the peace conference.

That was not the notion of Dr. Masaryk, the great and learned man who may rightly be called the founder of the Czechoslovak republic. His objective was the restoration of the old Bohemia, as it had existed as a kingdom before it fell in 1620 and was annexed to Austria. Dr. Masaryk or some of his associates even had it in mind to make it a kingdom, and the Grand Duke Nicholas was considered among the eligibles for the throne.

Dr. Masaryk believed that the Czech rights, though they had been in eclipse for three centuries, should outweigh the wishes of the Germans. For after all the Germans were in the nature of guests, having come at the invitation of the old Bohemian kings. The Germans, Dr. Masayrk pointed out, had not sought annexation to Germany when they were a part of the Bohemian kingdom nor even when they lived under the tyrannous Hapsburgs. Dr. Masaryk insisted that the German areas in Bohemia should be given to Czechoslovakia because they were discontinuous and because they were essential to a healthy economic life for the new republic.

The Czech case for her present borders is no doubt a good one, but even twenty years ago, before there was any political agitation in German Bohemia, there was some feeling in unbiased quarters, and even among the Czechs, that a portion of Bohemia should be given to Germany.

Thus the self-determination of minority peoples can be used with some logic to support a claim for a plebiscite, in which no doubt the Sudetens would vote the Hitler ticket. When such a justification exists for German aggression, slender though it may be considered, it is hard to believe that England would go to war to prevent it. She would not go to war for the integrity of China in 1932, or even support the United States in taking a firm stand against the aggression in Manchuria, and the Japanese did not claim that the Manchurians were their fellows. Mussolini was allowed to get away with Ethiopia, and there were no Fascists there crying out for deliverance. England did not prevent Hitler from taking Austria, although the Austrian people were about to prove by a plebiscite that they didn't want Hitler.

The point we are making is that if England wouldn't fight in these other flagrant cases, when the covetous country had not a shadow of a claim, she won't fight this time when the covetous country acts on a claim which was even urged as just by some of the Czechs at the peace conference.

England won't fight for Czechoslovakia, but she may fight for herself. If she opposes Germany it will be because she believes that Hitler is becoming powerful enough to dominate Europe. She is not worrying about what happens to a piece of Czechoslovakia, but about her own safety. That is what the British cabinet is now discussing. If the conclusion is that Hitler's strength endangers Britain's position a general war becomes probable. If the conclusion is to the contrary a war may be avoided.

AX RAIDS AND THE LAW.

J. C., writing in the Voice of the People, wonders why THE TRIBUNE has remained silent on what he considers the illegal character of the handbook ax raids. We did comment on Aug. 27 on some of the fundamental incongruities of our legal attitude toward gambling.

Handbooks are illegal under a gambling code which goes back to the days when Illinois was a Puritan community. We hold no brief for illegal operation of gambling houses, and certainly would not protest against enforcement of the law against them. But that was tried recently and a jury failed to convict. It seems probable that a majority of citizens, if not hostile to the anti-gambling laws, are at least indifferent to their enforcement.

If a law cannot be enforced legally there remain the alternatives of changing it, either by amendment or by nullification, or enforcing it by extralegal measures. Mayor Kelly sought the first solution when he tried to license the handbooks. The courts are still to decide whether the city council has the power to do this. It is admittedly within the power of the legislature.

Lawless conduct by men legally put in possession of lethal weapons is dangerous. We found that out in prohibition days. The theory that the end justifies the means, even in dealing with gangsters, has no place in our system of government. This is as true when the gangsters are engaged in gambling as when they were engaged in beer running.

What complicates the case still further is that this does not seem to be so much an attack on gambling per se as part of a Democratic factional fight.

Gambling always attracts hoodlums. This is true even when it is legalized, as Reno can testify. Nevertheless, vigilantism does not seem to us a safe or proper remedy.

A NEW MILK MONOPOLY.

While the federal grand jury is investigating an alleged milk monopoly in Chicago with a view to breaking it up, the New Deal has just imposed a milk monopoly on the people of New York. Mr. Wallace's Agricultural Adjustment administration called a meeting there of representatives of the dairy farmers and the dairy companies, at which it was agreed to raise the price of milk. The increase will vary from 1¼ to 3 cents a quart. This increase is intended to enable the companies to pay $2.45 a hundred pounds to the farmers instead of the present $2.

No doubt the farmers can show that $2.45 is not too high a price to pay them in view of their costs, their investment, and their labor. It does not follow that the higher price will benefit them. On the contrary, it is almost certain to leave them worse off than they are at present. Scores of attempts have been made to raise commodity prices in this way and every one of them has failed. There is no reason to expect a better result this time.

When the price of bottled milk is increased the consumers in New York will buy less of it. Some of them will purchase such substitutes as canned milk and powdered milk. Otherwise they will get along with less fresh milk than they formerly consumed. The surplus will therefore increase, and it is doubtful if an increased distribution of free milk, free butter, and free cheese to the families on relief will begin to equal the reduction in sales to the consumer.

The surpluses will become more troublesome than ever. More milk will have to be processed into butter and cheese and the prices of these commodities will trend downward. The government will then have greater difficulty than it now has in trying to maintain its price for these commodities. Sooner or later the attempt will be abandoned, but months more will elapse before the accumulation of stocks is reduced to normal proportions, and during that time the farmers will be worse off than ever.

That is what has always happened when governments tried to fix prices. It was the experience of the farm board and it is being repeated today in slightly different form in cotton and wheat. It was the experience of the Brazilian coffee control and, years ago, of the Greek currant control. It happened in the rubber market, in the copper market, and in a score of other markets.

Some day some one may find a way of discovering what a just price is and of paying it at all times to producers without doing them and the consumers more harm than good. Thus far the method has not been found. Farmers who permit themselves to be tricked into acceptance of such schemes are being victimized.

SAFE AND FAST.

Seventy-eight local improvement associations on the northwest side, through their central organization, have petitioned the city to construct an elevated highway in Avondale avenue from just west of the river to Milwaukee and Foster avenues. The proposed superhighway would be adjacent to the North Western railway and would be six lanes wide. It would not even create a new "wall" to divide sections of the city; the "wall" is already there in the railway's elevation. George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, estimated that the cost of the work would be approximately 9 million dollars.

The request was supported by the two arguments which have been put forward repeatedly in these columns: Only by means of an elevated road, with no pedestrian crossings and no cross trafic, can the enormous accident toll be reduced permanently; and only in this way can the movement of trafic through the congested portions of the city be expedited.

Wider roads on the surface will not do. If they permit the automobiles to go faster they only increase the risk of accident to pedestrians and to trafic entering from the side streets. As James E. Bulger of the motor club reported at the meeting, there is only one serious accident to each million and a quarter miles traveled on the outer drives, where there is no cross trafic, but on South Park way, a splendid example of the widened street, the rate is one accident to each 55,000 miles of travel. South Park way is approximately twenty times as dangerous a route as the outer drives. An elevated road should show an even better safety record because pedestrians would never have occasion to cross it; pedestrians do sometimes cross the outer drives.

The saving of time would, alone, justify the expenditure. The saving of lives makes the expenditure imperative. It is altogether certain that nowhere in the state can gasoline tax revenues be spent to better advantage than in constructing elevated roads through the congested west side of Chicago.

Editorial of the Day

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S SCRUPLES.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

This is what George Washington wrote on Sept. 12, 1792, to John Francis Mercer, candidate for congress, when he learned that Mr. Mercer was using his name for electioneering purposes:

"I come now to another part of your letter, and in touching upon it do not scruple to declare to you that I was not a little displeased to find by a letter from Capt. Campbell to a gentleman in this neighborhood that my name had been freely used by you or your friends for electioneering purposes, when I had never associated your name and the election together, and when there had been the most scrupulous and pointed caution observed on my part not to express a sentiment respecting the fitness or unfitness of any candidate for representative that could be construed by the most violent torture of the words into an interference in favor of one or to the prejudice of another.

"Conceiving that the exercise of an influence [if I really possess any], however remote, would be improper; as the people ought to be entirely at liberty to choose whom they pleased to represent them in congress . . . that such a measure would have been incompatible with the rule I had prescribed to myself, and which I had invariably observed, of not interfering directly or indirectly with the suffrages of the people in the choice of their representatives."

THANKS.

He walked for miles, tired and hungry, until he came to a farmhouse. It was late and the family had gone to bed. He knocked on the door, and at last a window was raised and a man's voice said: "What do you want?"

"I want to stay here," was the reply.

"All right, stay there!" said the voice, and down went the window.—Montreal Star.

WOODEN INDIANS ON PARADE.

[And the last of them.]

George Niemeyer, owner of a fine specimen [Goshen, Ind.], writes:

"A recent issue of the Tobacco Jobber states that there are at present in the United States about 602 wooden Indians, most of them on display in front of cigar stores where they belong. The balance are in use as garden pieces or sequestered by collectors. Their scarcity has been attributed to the coming of the modern drug store cowboy."

The Aurora, Ill., Beacon News describes one seven feet tall, carved from a solid piece of oak, on the Colorado estate of E. M. Oswalt. This Indian formerly adorned the Hunter estate in Elgin.

The specimen described below is not a new discovery, but the bulletin is worth reading:

I know a wooden indian on chicago avenue near racine. this year he ain't so purty cause I guess the people is poorer and can't afford to buy eight kinds of paint to paint his colored fetters. he used to be awful purty, though, and onct he had his pitcher in the paper on account of there ain't many of his kind. the kids put nails in his nose and one of his hands is gone, but he's there. Go see fer yourself. Bartuszka.

Angus S. Hibbard tries to give this scientific study a political trend by contribbing thus:

The greatest collection of wooden Indians in this or any other age will be found in the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, Washington, D. C. They are the "yes men" who today may hear their master's voice. Their number is decreasing. It is a universal hope that they will be soon forgotten.

THE INDIAN GUIDE.

Shorn of his robe and feathered pomp, he leads Along the winding mountain trail
The strange white brothers who have journeyed far
And seek to climb from peak to vale.

They cannot know the thrill of pride that flows
Deep hidden in his Indian heart
As, stoic and aloof, he points the way,
Chanting the lore red men impart.

Strong as the oak, deep-rooted in the soil;
Swift as the clouds that cross the blue;
Knowing the mission of beast, bird, and flower,
Touched by the magic of Manitou.

With summer gone, immobile as the rocks,
He'll see the last train move below.
His voice will be the moaning pines, brushed by Cold fingers of the first light snow.

A FAMILY TENDENCY TO DIABETES.

DESPITE the discovery of insulin with its life-saving properties we must regard diabetes as far from conquered. In fact, in the last thirty years it has advanced from 27th to 10th place as a cause of death. Authorities fear that within a few years it will equal tuberculosis as a national menace. It seems to be on the increase not only in the United States, but in Europe as well.

These observations give us pause. Are we doing all that we should to forestall this slowly progressive disorder? Have we placed enough emphasis on the question of dietetic control? Or have we—on the contrary—lulled ourselves into a position of false security, because we have relied upon insulin too implicitly for the conquest of the disease?

Let us look at some of the causative factors. In the first place, the diabetic is born—that is, the infant comes into the world with too few cells which produce the starch and sugar regulating chemical. As a result, a weakened organ may fail under the onslaught occasioned by poorly balanced rations.

Naturally, there are many forces which can decrease the power of the body to handle sugar—for example, acute infections such as scarlet fever, measles, or diphtheria. Pus within the gall bladder is another starting point. Then there is the effect of certain lacking gland secretions, as well as the products of muscular activity. These latter are likely to become manifest in obese persons as inertia may submerge exercise. While these may be minor considerations, nevertheless, they probably play a vital rôle.

More important than all is heredity, and it has been proved that should two diabetics marry, all the offspring may at some time develop the ailment. Of course, there are all grades of this so-called tendency and a man or woman may have a somewhat weakened sugar controling system without actually exhibiting the illness. Nevertheless, if he or she should marry a true diabetic, half the children may become affected. If two such persons marry—neither having demonstrated the disease [through the appearance of glucose in the urine]—one-quarter of the progeny will possess a greater likelihood of becoming victims.

Prevention then becomes the keynote. First and foremost is the avoidance of overweight. This is one of those safety devices which yields large dividends. Will the recommended food régime consist merely of reducing the consumption of bread, potatoes, sugar, and starchy foods? Not entirely, because it has been found that if hunger is unsatisfied the patient will turn to more cream and butter and, strangely enough, a high fat dietary may lower still further one's ability to handle sugars.

The case is cited by Adlersberg and Siegal of a 48 year old man whose urine was found to contain sugar, although he had no other symptoms of diabetes. On a low carbohydrate-high fat diet he was worse off than on an ordinary menu. Other examples point to the fact that sugar in the urine—without the disease—has been cleared up as soon as a generous quantity of starches and sugars was fed. These cases are not considered true diabetes, in which the production of hormone from the pancreas is below standard. In other words, diets which are unrestricted have restored metabolism to normal.

These authors maintain, therefore, that there are some instances of what may be termed artificial diabetes in which even an excessive amount of starches and sugars will banish glucose from the urine. They sound the warning that severe limitation of carbohydrates in those predisposed to the trouble is not only useless, but may prove dangerous.

It goes without saying, however, that the food intake for any one should not exceed body needs. It is overeating that upsets metabolism. Once the maintenance diet has been established, the distribution between carbohydrates, fats, and proteins should be that found in well balanced meals.

BATHE HIS EYES.

Mrs. A. B. writes: My 2 year old son's eyes have mucus in the corners when he wakens. Is this a sign of poor eyesight?

REPLY.

No, this does not indicate poor eyesight. The chances are that some slight irritation is present. Bathing the eyes with a dilute solution of boric acid will be helpful. The upper lid may be raised and a small amount of this liquid applied with a medicine dropper. Consult your physician about the solution.

COBRA VENOM EASES PAIN.

M. M. writes: Is it true that snake venom is being used in place of morphine to ease pain?

REPLY.

Cobra venom has been used in alleviating severe pain in some diseases. In fact, it is an effective substitute for powerful narcotics.

INSURANCE.

Petoskey, Mich., Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Under the caption "Friend of the People" your reply in the Aug. 24 edition to an inquiry on an insurance policy contains little helpful information to the policy holder. It seems to me that the policy holder ought to be told that her policy, which is now in the possession of her mother, is still her own property and that [1] she as the insured has all rights to it. 2. Also that the insurance company that issued the policy will recognize no other person as a claimant to any parts of the contract except in event of her death. 3. Also that she has a right to change the name of the beneficiary and [4] even to request a duplicate copy. Of course it must be assumed that this policy is an old line legal reserve policy. J. S.

1. We felt that if the policy had been delivered to another person as a security for that person's advancing the premiums, that the person so holding it for security would be entitled to continue holding it. If you know authority to the contrary we would be interested in seeing it.
2. This is probably correct.
3. This depends on the wording of the policy, as we stated in our answer.
4. Obviously, he can request anything that he chooses to request.

ASKS WHERE THE TRIBUNE STANDS

Chicago, Sept. 16.—As a long time reader of THE TRIBUNE I have agreed with most of its editorials and policies, and particularly when it comes to its conception of democracy and constitutional government we have seen eye to eye. THE TRIBUNE'S attitude toward prohibition and its enforcement methods were admirable, as well as its constant defense against any attempts to change our democratic form of government.

Therefore, when the recent tactics of an important law enforcing official of Cook county were brought to public display, marked by an extreme "fuehrer"-like tinge, terrorizing citizens guilty of the heinous crime of horse betting outside of a race track, and flaunting the destruction of tables, chairs, walls, air conditioning equipment, and similar paraphernalia under the guise of law enforcement, without warants or any other legal process, I looked to THE TRIBUNE, as did many others, for militant leadership in taking up the cudgels against these un-American activities in our local government.

Great indeed was my surprise and disappointment when nothing was said by THE TRIBUNE when these activities continued day after day. In fact, THE TRIBUNE seemed strangely apathetic even when these terroristic tactics were used against frightened and fainting women, and no apparent arrests or charges of a legal nature were made.

The extremely alien sounding statement of a police official in charge of these raids saying: "I can't help it if these places fall apart," did not bring forth even a murmur of protest in the editorials of THE TRIBUNE.

Neither did any powerful cartoons from the pen of Orr or Parrish appear. The thought struck home—Is THE TRIBUNE undominated or are its policies for Americanism and against dictatorship tactics in any form merely the figment of a visionary in its editorial department and actually not to be practiced in its own back yard? The disillusioned readers and former editorial sympathizers await your answer. J. C.

IF WE'D HAD A PLEBISCITE THEN!

Richmond, Va., Sept. 26, 1860.—A plebiscite on the question of secession was demanded here today in a resolution adopted by a convention of representatives of southern states. Advocates declared that such a vote, if taken, would be at least 90 per cent for secession. Jefferson Davis, who presided and is mentioned as likely to be president of the new confederacy for the maintenance of slavery, declared the proposed plebiscite would establish a new principle of international law that would prove a valuable precedent in years to come in determining the rights of minorities and consequent changes in national boundaries. PAUL V. PERRY.

ETHIOPIA'S CASE DIFFERENT?

Chicago, Sept. 15.—I wish some one who is probably more intelligent than I, would answer this question for me: Why it is that France and England are trying to involve us in another great war over the crisis between Germany and Czechoslovakia when they both stood idly by, with the exception of a few flowery speeches, while Italy completely possessed Ethiopia, and now only a part of Czechoslovakia is involved?

BEULAH FORD.

RESCINDED AND REVOKED.

Wenona, Ill., Sept. 15.—Apparently—judging from the results of the Democratic senatorial primaries—the "mandate" has been rescinded.

SIVA THE SECOND.

BOOSTER'S VIEW OF TRACTION.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Replying to W. S. Devlin's letter on traction:

Why place the blame for the traction problem on the shoulders of Mayor Kelly? The mayor has adopted the platform first sounded by Carter H. Harrison that the "streets belong to the people" and "No franchise granted without the proper compensation to the city."

The Chicago Surface Lines is merely an operating agency and not a corporation. It operates the four street railways as one system.

These four companies are in federal receivership because they have failed to pay the interest on their outstanding funded debt, and for no other reasons. In spite of receivership the surface lines are turning over to the underlying companies each year the sum of $8,000,000. Not too bad for a company in receivership. It is unfortunate that the franchise agreement of 1907 made no arrangements for a sinking fund for the retirement of funded debts of the street car companies. That ordinance also allowed the companies to make an arbitrary figure of 15 per cent to cover procuring money and superintendence. Since there is an apparent increase of 115 millions in the capital account since 1907, the 15 per cent represents a tidy lake of pure water. BERNAY KINNAYE,
President, Greater South Side Chicago Boosters' Association.

THOSE MULTIPLE JOBHOLDERS.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—It seems to me odd that some of our city and government officials do not take a hand in relieving the unemployment situation with some kind of a restriction on employés, either government, state or city, who are holding more than one job. If these people were patriotic and would simply stick to one job, it would make room for many of the unemployed. It seems as though this idea is being avoided by all who really could help, and this suggestion would apply from the head of our nation to the smallest politician.

A TRIBUNE SUBSCRIBER.

ANCESTRY IS GERMAN.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—To settle an argument, will some one kindly advise whether the people known as Pennsylvania Dutch are descendants of the Hollanders or of the Germans?

A READER.

CLARIFIES "HOOD AND BONNET."

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Your editorial writer is "pausing for a reply" to his worried inquiry about differences in United States and English use of words. Here's my answer:

The hood covers the "head" of an automobile as a bonnet covers the head of a woman—or covers her noodle. Now you tell me whoever thought out the word "noodle" for head.

Some say petrol for gasoline who desire to affect a British flair.

Engine driver is used to distinguish one from an engineer who performs engineering work.

They call a mechanic an engineer because he performs the work on a machine laid out by an engineer; a pantechnicon—never heard that word used to designate a "removal van." Not one person in a million knows it.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine people out of a million say "freight" train—not goods train.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine people out of a million say "railroad tie"—not "sleeper," when referring to the tracks on which the train rolls along.

The expression: he is a "red blooded" American—another habit of speech. Every person, regardless of nationality, has red blood. "Blue" blood—another habit of speech. No one has blue blood. Whoever originated the thought that aristocrats, wealthy people, society people are "blue bloods"—no one knows. Do you? EDWARD ARNHEM.

TANNING OUR EPIDERMIS.

Pekin, Ill., Sept. 15.—When I first saw the word "lether" in the esteemed TRIB, I naturally thought some sort of lethal weapon—a tommy gun, for example—was meant. However, the context shows that this idea is erroneous and that the word was intended for "leather," which, of course, is the proper way to spell it, meaning the tanned epidermis of animals. It is hoped that THE TRIB, which is a good paper in many respects, will improve in its spelling, which is bad and causes much anguish to people who are educated in the English language.

Yours for better spelling.

GEORGE O. WARREN.

CAVALRY MEETS BLACK INVADERS IN KNOX DEFENSE

5th and 6th Corps War to Rage Until Friday.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Knox, Ky., Sept. 18.—[Special.] Cavalry of the Second Blue field army engaged advance forces of the invading First Black field army tonight in defense of the nation's gold hoard, hidden deep in the earth below Fort Knox. It is the job of the second army to prevent a march of the enemy across Kentucky into the industrial centers of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

Of course, no blood will be shed in this warfare, but valuable military training will be received by National Guard, reserve and regular army officers of the 5th and 6th corps areas. The military operation here that will be completed next Saturday is known as a command post exercise.

500 Officers Engaged.

With Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum of Chicago, commander of the 6th corps area, in command of the second army, 500 officers are taking part in the exercise. Success of the second army in defending the gold and industry of the area will be decided by a staf of regular army umpires.

The exercise is for the training of command stafs. Enlisted men engaged in the operation are principally service troops who carry messages, operate telephone and telegraph lines, and drive the cars in which staf officers move about the war theater. A staf of specialists also is engaged in facsimile transmission of maps and sketches by wire—an innovation being tried for the first time by the army.

As constituted tonight, the second army consists of the 5th corps, which includes the 5th, 37th, and 38th divisions, and the 6th corps made up of the 6th, 32d, and 33d divisions, and the 53d and 54th cavalary brigades.

How Results Are Determined.

In carrying out the exercise, information is given to commanders by the umpires concerning imagined location and operations of the Black forces. When the commanders have decided what steps should be taken to replace such an enemy, the stafs, under the direction of the commanders, issue combat orders to meet the enemy situation.

Instead of these orders being passed down to the lower commands for execution, as in actual warfare, they are sent to the umpires, headed by Col. J. P. Marley, a veteran regular army tactician, who analyze each order, mark the position and number of troops involved on a master map, and then notify the division commanders of the military effect of solutions as expressed in the orders.

For example, if, in meeting a situation a Blue regiment were ordered to capture a position occupied by two Black regiments, the umpires would inform the Blue commander that the regiment had been driven off with heavy losses. It then would be up to the Blue commander to issue orders to meet the new situation.

Black Army Near Upton.

When the second army's defensive problem got under way tonight the general situation given to the commanders showed a large Black force concentrated near Upton, Ky. More Black troops were at Barren Run school and at Tanner, not far away. A division of the enemy was at Scottsville.

The Blue army has made a stand along the north bank of the Nolin river, across U. S. highway 31, and eastward to Hodgenville.

These positions probably will be maintained until daybreak, when Blue forces are expected to start a counter-attack. The war ends Friday night.

START BUILDING NEW MONROE ST. VIADUCT TODAY

Work will be started today on the new $439,200 Monroe street viaduct connecting Michigan avenue with Columbus drive over the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad. The old structure will be closed at 7 a. m. and wreckers will start tearing it down. A temporary bridge for pedestrians will be built in a few days, but there will be no accommodation for vehicle trafic until the project is completed.

The approaches on each side are to be widened from between 40 and 50 feet to a full 60 feet. The bridge roadway, now 32 feet across, also will be widened to 60 feet.

WPA WORKER'S CAR HITS DITCH; EIGHT INJURED

An automobile driven by a WPA worker plunged into a ditch at 171st and Halsted streets in Harvey early yesterday. All eight occupants, three of them women, were cut and bruised.

The driver was Arthur Sutton, 189 East 154th street, Harvey. When he and three other men riding in the car could not explain what happened Homewood county highway police charged them with disorderly conduct. A fifth man had left the scene when police arrived.

Mrs. Asa West, 74 years old, 4442 Beacon street, was killed yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding and another collided north of Anderson, Ind. Four others, all passengers in the same car, were injured. They are Mrs. West's husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodyard of Elwood, Ind., and Mrs. Guy Rhodus of Kansas City, Mo.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 572 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 439 were killed in Chicago, where 13,891 were injured in the same period.

MARSHALL FIELD THE THIRD TO GET MORE MILLIONS

Marshall Field III., grandson of the founder of the Chicago department store, will receive another big slice of the Field estate on Sept. 28, his 45th birthday. Field, who lives in Long Island, N. Y., on his 50th birthday will come into full control of the estate. Its value has been estimated at more than $200,000,000.

How many millions Field will receive next week as provided in the will of his grandfather, who died in 1906, is a matter of guesswork. He will receive $3,000,000 under the will and the balance of the estate's accrued income. George Richardson of Chicago, trustee of the estate, denied a report that the latter now amounts to around 100 million dollars. "How much Field will receive on his 45th or 50th birthday," said Richardson, "is his own business."

Field has already received many millions from the estate.

WHY LET GONORRHEA DESTROY YOUR HEALTH

when you can secure specialized medical attention in privacy and comfort on a "not-for-profit" basis from an institution that has given over 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for venereal diseases?

If you have contracted gonorrhea, do not make the tragic mistake of resorting to quack treatment or self medication. For when gonorrhea is improperly treated, it may result in a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling arthritis, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. Also, it may cause babies to be blinded at birth, or require women to submit to mutilating pelvic operations that make it impossible for them ever to have children!

On account of these destructive complications, it is best to consult your family doctor or a long-established clinic like the Public Health Institute. As the Institute has given over 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for venereal diseases since 1920, its experienced physicians are obviously qualified to render an unsurpassed medical service!

Yet, because public-spirited citizens organized the Public Health Institute on a "not-for-profit" basis, its fees are remarkably reasonable considering its extremely high standards. For example, 6 treatments for gonorrhea cost only $4.00!

In addition to providing specialized treatment, including rigid tests of cure, the Public Health Institute does everything possible to contribute to privacy and comfort. Patients are never treated in groups, but each is promptly and individually attended in a private room and is known by number rather than by name.

The Public Health Institute maintains its own laboratory to insure the accuracy of its tests, and X-ray, dental and eye departments are available to such patients requiring those services. In other words, the Institute possesses virtually every modern facility for the expert treatment of gonorrhea.

Syphilis, too, requires specialized attention, for if neglected or improperly treated it may easily lead to heart diseases, blindness, deafness, paralysis or even insanity! Some of the Institute's treatments for syphilis cost only $1.00.

So take no chances, but visit your own doctor or the Public Health Institute, which charges but $3.00 for a thorough examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including urinalysis, smears and blood tests. No one will be turned away for lack of ready money, as even those temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated! Thus specialized medical attention, including tests of cure, is now available to the entire community.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

SEEK SUPPORT FOR 2 ONE-WAY STREETS WEST

Aldermen Will Be Asked to Aid Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

West side aldermen this week will be asked to support a proposal to create a pair of one-way streets from the loop to Oak Park. Such a proposal has been dormant before the city council since last year, although the Chicago park administration has indicated its willingness to undertake the improvement.

A group of west side and west suburban civic workers last week formed a committee to call upon these aldermen. The chairman is Emile Bloche, president of the Oak Park Optimists club. Other members include William S. Devlin of the West Towns chamber of commerce; Dr. Fred L. Glenn, president, Austin Kiwanis club; A. L. Hall, editor, River Forest Leaves; Arthur M. Romme, editor, Austin neighborhood newspaper; Lathrop M. Arnold, Oak Park safety commission; J. E. Bulger, Chicago Motor club; and Mark Shanks, who is active in west side affairs.

Indorsed by 28 Groups.

Twenty-eight civic organizations have indorsed a plan to extend the Warren-Washington one-way system east to the loop and west to the city limits. As designed by George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, improvements of existing pavements would cost approximately $1,500,000. This is a variation of a design by Otto K. Jelinek, Chicago park district engineer, which would cost approximately $2,300,000.

Both the Barton and the Jelinek plans would use Randolph street east of Union park for west bound through trafic. Through trafic east bound from Union park would use Washington boulevard.

How Cars Would Be Routed.

At Union park, Warren boulevard's east bound trafic would flow into Washington boulevard. Randolph street's west bound trafic would flow into Washington boulevard.

At Garfield park, the terminus of the present one-way system, Washington boulevard's west bound trafic would flow into Maypole avenue. A new right of way would be opened for the quarter of a mile from Laramie avenue to Long avenue so Maypole avenue's west bound trafic would flow into West End avenue to continue to the city limits at Austin boulevard.

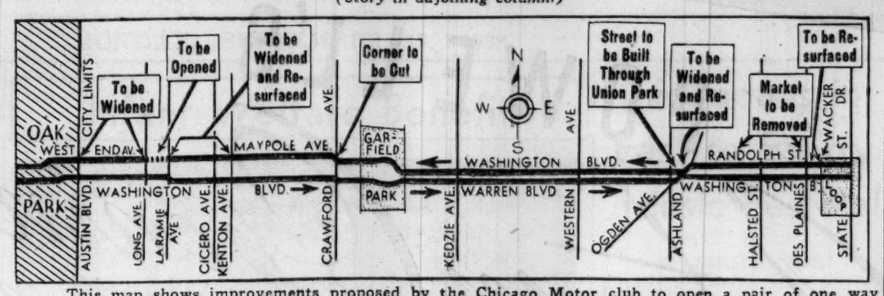
East bound trafic, starting at the city limits, would have exclusive use of Washington boulevard into and through Garfield park. Thereafter, it would use Warren boulevard, as at present, to Union park, where it would flow into Washington boulevard.

Barton, talking before the west area council of the Chicago Motor club, an affiliation of sixty-one neighborhood civic groups, said that experience with the Warren-Washington system has established that this one-way regulation increases pavement capacities, steps up safe speeds, and reduces accidents.

Aldermen have been luke warm toward this proposal because it would call for their surrendering jurisdiction of seven miles of city streets to the Chicago park district. Other aldermen have been cold toward this low cost proposal on a theory, which is denied, that its realization might detract from promotions of more expensive west side trafic projects.

Proposed Trafic Relief Plans for West Side

(Story in adjoining column.)



This map shows improvements proposed by the Chicago Motor club to open a pair of one way thoroughfares from the loop to Oak Park. The plan would be an extension east and west of the existing Warren avenue-Washington boulevard one way system. The cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

ADMITS SLAYING 26 YEARS AGO TO FREE HIS MIND

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Louis Horvath walked into police headquarters here yesterday and told Sergt. August De Vos he had killed a man twenty-six years ago and wanted to get it off his conscience. Horvath said he killed Joseph Ceceli in Bellevue, O., on Sept. 3, 1912, in a drinking quarrel.

Louis Horvath.

Horvath is 47 years old and a dining room employé at Notre Dame university. He said he came to South Bend three years ago to make amends to the widow of Ceceli. She is Mrs. Louis Szigeti. She identified Horvath as the slayer of her husband and said he had not tried to make any amends. She said she had hesitated to prosecute him because she believed she would have to bear the expenses of the prosecution.

The Sheffield avenue police were asked yesterday to search for Rose Maria Derda, 13 years old, 3022 Clifton avenue. Her father, John Derda, said she had been missing since noon Saturday.

THREATEN TWO; ROB STORE OF $28.

BRICK THROWN THROUGH WINDOW.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Week's Wash

Written in Chicago.

Memo to Winnipeg, Canada, girls: Clark Gable will arrive there within the next week to do some duck shooting. He has five weeks to go on his vacation. . . . Greta Garbo sails from Sweden in two weeks, and will go directly to Hollywood. . . . Douglas Corrigan will decide today when he meets Pandro Berman at the RKO studios whether or not he'll appear in the picture based on his life. . . . Doug Fairbanks Jr. being very attentive to Gertrude Lawrence. . . . Reason that A. C. Blumenthal returned on the same boat that carried him to England with June Lang is this: June spent most of her time with Lady Astor's lad, William Waldorf Astor. . . . Doing the Lambeth walk. . . . Honey Johnson and Dick Berlin are reaching the Lohengrin stage. . . . Kay Francis and Baron Barnekow have postponed their wedding. She's busy in "Women in the Wind." . . . The 50,000 Legionnaires who tour the complete Warner studio tomorrow won't forget when they get home that the Warner's didn't forget them.

Chicago theater men will tell you that this city never will go "swing." They explain the 120,000 jitterbug turnout at Soldiers' field by pointing out that it was a novelty, and free. Benny Goodman did only fair business in his second week at the Chicago theater. If they won't jam his jam sessions it indicates that swing hasn't caught on in the midwest. . . . Margaret Lindsay will become Mrs. Robert Abbott. . . . If Joe Widener wants to sell his Hialeah race track I've got two buyers for him, Charlie McCullough and Warren Wright, wealthy Chicagoans. They'll give him cash. . . . David Niven's real honey, an English girl, is en route from there to visit him. . . . Tyrone Power liked the Cuban senoritas so much that he'll fly to South America for a seven weeks' vacation. . . . Soon as he fires the last shot in "Jesse James."

Couple holding hands at band concerts in Mexico City was Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow Jr. . . . Irene Dunne will adopt a second child. . . . Her next picture is a co-starrer with Charles Boyer. . . . William Powell leaves the hospital next week, and doctors are delighted with his rapid recovery. . . . Fernand Gravet, Joel McCrea, and Frances Dee passing through Chicago, backstage visitors. . . . Real reason Frank Lloyd, Paramount ace director, sailed for England is to dig up material for "Erik the Red." He took along prints of his Ronald Colman starrer, "If I Were King." . . . Wesley Ruggles is spending his vacation in London, trying on gas masks.

World's Fair biggie, John Krimsky, is willing to build a huge movie theater and exhibit the twelve most thrilling pictures of cinema history. What pictures would you select as the twelve to be exhibited? Make up your lists and mail them to me at THE TRIBUNE. . . . Censors refused to permit a scene showing a doublebed in "The Sisters," the Errol Flynn-Bette Davis picture. Laugh is that twin beds weren't thought of until 1904, and the picture happens before then. . . . Los Angeles Nazis, who have been bombarding the town from the air with attacks on non-Aryans, were mussed up plenty by straight punchers. . . . The printing press was destroyed, too.

Reason legit producers don't want to handle Luise Rainer in a stage play is that her contract forbids her to tour with a show. . . . The big money in a stage hit is on the road. . . . Add Oddities: When Billy Hicks' Sizzling Six opens at the St. Regis Maisonette Russe on the 27th, the sponsors will outnumber the six-piece band: Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Huntingdon Hartford, Mrs. W. Deering Howe, Mrs. Warren Pershing, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, Mrs. Charles Lawrence, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen. That's one and two-thirds patroness for each musician. . . . Edward Everett Horton back from Europe with a load of antiques. . . . War scare frightened those movie celebs who had European liner reservations. Jack Warner is latest to cancel out.

Before he left New York Fred Astaire asked me to play golf with him when I got back to the coast, "just a nice friendly game." I got news of him through a Hollywood operative yesterday. Since he got back he's been taking lessons from Olin Dutra and is now shooting Bel-Air in the low 70s. Nice guy. . . . Lynn Bari and Walter Kane have set the date. . . . Mrs. Anatole Friedland will arrive on the coast next month. . . . Aside to Red Kann: You had me fooled. Despite what they said about you, I thought you were a nice kid. . . . Bing Crosby shipped his car to New York and then learned no cars were permitted in Bermuda, where he wanted to take it. . . . Harlan Thompson and Marion Spitzer have canceled their Mediterranean trip. . . . Jack Benny's one-horse stable, Buck Benny, will travel to Santa Anita with the Alfred Vanderbilt string of thoroughbreds. . . . John Hertz and Warren Wright will ship to Santa Anita, too, so it looks like a terrific racing season thar.

Warner's hurrying "Dawn Patrol" to exchanges to get ballyhoo of war excitement. . . . What happened to Ed Gardner on the M-G-M "Good News" show? He's out of the setup. . . . Sir Stork landed at the Irving Rubines. . . . Benny Fields and Blossom Seeley passing through Chicago, en route to Loew's State. . . . Wait until you hear his "Alexander's Ragtime Band" arrangement. . . . Socko! . . . At the Hi Hat last night Joe Lewis sliced his act in half, because plagiarists were sitting at ringside table. Copying down his routines! . . . Lou Holtz to Cincinnati. . . . Burns and Allen to Kansas City, then to New York. . . . Harry Richman a big click at the Chez Paree. . . . Earl Carroll passed through to Hollywood with plans for his $500,000 club all drawn up. . . . An ice show goes into the Trocadero. Recommended: Gracie Barry warbling "Music, Maestro, Please." . . . Or Terry Lawlor doing "So Help Me." . . . Or Jackie Heller's band at the Stevens hotel doing the Lambeth walk, with Heller, the shorty, dancing it with 5 foot 9 inch Lois Harper.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Some calls it football. I calls it screwball—so far as this picture is concerned. And having firmly made this distinction, I proceed to assure you that "Hold That Co-ed" is a "different" and amusing movie of the comic-college variety. With this exception:

The introduction of a kickoff girl on a men's football team and the portrayal of same by Joan Davis with her persistent and unfunny muggings and contortions are stupidities that, while they don't spoil the picture, still seriously detract from its entertainment value.

If producers would just forget Miss Davis until she could at least pretend to have learned to forget that she's in front of a camera, and that even slapstick can be plain stick given too much slap, the screen would be, well—richer.

That off the chest—"Hold That Co-ed" is a breezy opus in which football and politics meet and mix hilariously. . . . Two candidates for the senatorship wage their separate campaigns principally on the campuses and gridirons of colleges with which they, respectively, have affiliations. This state of affairs leads to some of the wildest and wooziest situations imaginable. Pliss see movie for same—I haven't strength to go into detail.

The cast will, in the main, meet, I'm sure, with your unqualified approval. John Barrymore never did anything better than his portrayal of eccentric, lovable, unmoral, fast thinking Gov. Harrigan, who starts out opposing football and suddenly, for political reasons, takes it to his breast.

George Murphy is great as football coach of the broken down state university that blossoms into such a Gargantuan plant under Harrigan's ardent waterings. . . .

Marjorie Weaver is sweet as the governor's secretary. She IS such a pretty, unspoiled person! George Barbier gives an amusing depiction of the opposing candidate . . . and so on.

There's a gale of a finale. [Literally!] The director knew his vegetables, as, in the main, did the dialog writer.

See you tomorrow.

Chicagoans in East to Enjoy Music Festival

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGO music lovers probably wish they were in the Berkshires this week for Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge's festival of chamber music on South Mountain in Pittsfield. It was twenty years ago this month that Mrs. Coolidge, formerly Elizabeth Sprague of Chicago, started these festivals in the unique Temple of Music which she built that year. This year there will be five concerts, starting Wednesday.

The huge timbers of the temple, which is open to the rafters, came from a century old textile mill at Hinsdale, in Berkshire county, Mass., not in Illinois. The cushioned pews, seating 500, are from an abandoned church at Concord, N. H. A winding, hard-surfaced road leads through the woods to the temple from the Pittsfield-Lenox state highway.

Mrs. Coolidge, who visited in Chicago last week en route from Oakland, Cal., to Pittsfield, is the guest for two weeks of Mr. and Mrs. Willem Willeke at Mountain House. Mr. Willeke is the leader of the South Mountain String quartet. Mrs. Coolidge's son, Prof. Albert Sprague Coolidge of Harvard, his wife, and their three children are at Pittsfield for the festival, also.

Social Events Are Linked to Festival.

This afternoon Mrs. Willeke is giving a tea for Mrs. Coolidge at which there will be 150 guests. On Thursday Mrs. Coolidge is to be hostess at a mountain picnic to which the 500 who will attend the morning concert have been invited. That night new composers will be Mrs. Coolidge's guests at a dinner at the Hotel Wendell, and on Friday evening she is entertaining at a reception at the Wendell. All who attend the festival are invited. Mrs. Coolidge also is giving a luncheon Friday for 50 at the Pittsfield Country club.

The Donald F. McPhersons of Winnetka will have as festival guests at Court Hill, their home in Pittsfield, their daughter, Mrs. Thomas S. Tyler, of Chicago, and Mrs. Francis King of South Hartford, Conn. The McPhersons gave a dinner party last Saturday for Victor Elting and his son, John Elting. With Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury at Tor Court, her home in Pittsfield, are Mr. and Mrs. Wilder V. Kimball, Mrs. Charles H. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Henry French of Rumford, Me.

Miss Helen Campbell Taylor has four much admired Mexican scenes in a water color gallery at the 30th annual Stockbridge art exhibition. Miss Taylor and her mother, Mrs.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

IT was a luncheon party for Luther Adler, and as he declined meat dishes in favor of a salad, he quoted a comment made by Vegetarian George Bernard Shaw, whom he met when Golden Boy was playing in London. "Won't you partake of your fellow creature?" Shaw put it. This brought on a Hollywood-Shaw autograph story. A movie magnate wrote Shaw: "Will you be so kind as to send me your autograph? I have been collecting them since I was 17." Shaw replied: "When are you going to grow up?" and appended the desired signature.

Thornton Wilder once said he had an idea Shaw was playing a game with posterity and that his replies to requests for signatures were made with an eye to his collected letters. Wonder if he keeps a file of addresses to expedite such a collection?

AN autograph of double interest is part of the flyleaf inscription in a book in the famous collection of Chicago authors on the book shelves of Joseph T. Ryerson's treasure filled Chicago room on the top floor of his Astor street house. It is a presentation copy of a book, Fudge Doings, written by his grandfather, Donald G. Mitchell, whose pen name was Ik Marvel, published by Scribners in 1855. On the flyleaf of each of the two volumes it reads, To Major General Banks. Abe Lincoln.

THIS week's nonsense story. Six ostriches were standing in a row, their heads buried in the sand. A seventh came up, looked around, and said, "Where's everybody?"

* *

The story brings to mind the one Charles Winninger telephoned Ernest Byfield from New York. It concerned a jungle conclave. The elephant was chairman. He rapped for order with his trunk and asked every one please to be seated. Three ostriches remained standing and the chairman finally sent a monkey page boy to ask them to sit down. The ostriches apologized for not being able to obey the rules. Some hunters had been after them for three days, they explained, and they were too sunburned to sit down.

CUFF NOTES—Mrs. Roosevelt, in blue with a gray topcoat, leaving the Blackstone accompanied by her secretary, to take a train east after arriving in town from Rochester, Minn. . . . Senator Vandenburg swinging down Michigan avenue. . . . Pagemate Ed Sullivan, young and vital looking as he reads, dashing to the Chicago theater for oral wise-cracking from the stage. . . . Hazel Forbes Richman, in pale pink, applauding Husband Harry Richman at Chez Paree. . . . Dwight Fisk, master of triple entendre, getting his fountain pen ready for book autographing at a La Salle street book shop this afternoon. Between Seasons Note—Apartment building manager apologizing for the elevator men's summer uniforms.

WHEN Ed Sullivan shows flashes of old movies and former stars on the screen at the Chicago Valentino, Chaplin, and Rogers get applause. Rogers gets the biggest hand. A line in Nathalie Sedgewick Colby's new book Remembering came to mind; how Rogers' rope swinging was like the timing and placing of a word in poetry.

The most amazing rope swinging we have seen since Rogers was two weeks ago near Santa Fe, done after a luncheon party by one of the guests, a monocled French scientist, wearing cowboy boots and a ten gallon hat. He was Pierre de Nouey, who with Madame Nouey was much entertained when they were in Chicago with the Pasteur exhibit at A Century of Progress. They have been on a holiday in the southwest. Pretty Madame de Nouey, who works with him in the laboratory, was hung with silver and turquoise Indian jewelry, and even plans an adaptation of a Navajo costume, complete with moccasins, for a tea gown in Paris.

THEN there was the city girl, says Martin K. Ash, who, asked the occupation of her vacation time rural bumpkin, answered demurely, "O, shucks!"

Chicago Czechs Will Honor Patron Saint, a Lover of Peace

Chicago Czech-Americans will observe the feast of their patron saint next Sunday with religious ceremonies, parades, radio broadcasts, music, and drama.

St. Vaclav, called the good King Wenceslaus in an old English carol, was renowned as a lover of peace. "He brought his people that peace a thousand years ago by his firm stand in the dispute with the German king, Henry the Fowler," Czech-Americans declared in announcing plans for the celebration.

The main events will be in old St. Wenceslaus church at DeKoven and Desplaines streets, a landmark passed over by the Chicago fire, and at the Chicago Stadium, where a massmeeting will be held. At noon a nationwide broadcast will originate at W-G-N under the auspices of the National Alliance of Czech Catholics.

The Housewife

If you're a housewife who likes to keep her bills, accounts, and papers in order, you'll find a desk file helpful. And these aids are good looking, too. Some files are handsome enough to leave on top of a knee-hole mahogany desk or any other type of desk.

These are of heavy paper in antique brown. There are compartments listed from A through Z. The covers are decorated with prints showing dogs' heads. One had the head of a spaniel, another a shepherd dog; a third an Aberdeen terrier, etc. The price is reasonable.

If you're wondering what prize to buy for the next bridge party you might try one of these desk files.

INSTALMENT I.

A WOMAN'S SCREAM.

There was a thickish mist over Hampstead. O, not a real fog—as Alison was careful to explain.

"Wait," she scoffed, "till you've had a whole year of London, as I have. You'll see."

David Beddoes grunted. He let his cousin, Alison Young, brag airily about the pea-soupers she had known, while his thoughts continued to run in those grooves of bewilderment and disappointment that had deepened ever since his arrival in England.

It would be a good thing, David decided, when his new job as factory efficiency expert began taking him all over England, leaving him no time for brooding. No time for vain speculation as to why in this country it seemed so hard to find out the whereabouts of people who were not listed in any of the usual directories.

He had been so sure, from the moment he signed up for the new job in New York, that coming to England would bring him in touch with Betsy. He had never stopped to consider how impossible it would be, even if he should find her.

Simply, he had allowed himself to count absolutely on seeing her, on hearing her sometimes gay, sometimes wistful voice speaking his name. How tenderly she had spoken it on that last drive of theirs together. Betsy's voice! He could always conjure it up in his mind. His aural day dreaming lent the imagined cry such poignant urgency—Betsy summoning him, needing him—that he jerked himself violently back to reality, to Alison at his side chattering up to him through the fog.

They sidestepped abruptly to avoid a looming figure in the mist—a policeman.

"I wish now," Alison said, after the measured tread had quite died away, "we had asked him where the house is."

"I wish you had too. By the way, just who is this good woman who's throwing the party?"

"I told you—Lady Wibbe. Cynthia. Author of 'Caravans.' She's a good seller and we've made a contract to publish her books. I've only been to her house once before—a sherry party in September."

They heard a scream—a woman's voice in agony and fear . . .

She halted before a dark, curving road abutting on Hampstead heath. Several large houses loomed out of the mist. All looked alike to Alison, whose real thoughts, like David's, were tending to run in deeply personal channels.

She was going over in her mind, yet again, that sherry party given by Lady Wibbe in September; that dull gathering made oddly exciting by her first meeting with Colin Ladbroke who had driven her home from Hampstead of her fiat in Mecklenburg square. Too bad Colin couldn't be here tonight.

"There was a big garden," she meditated aloud, "and a sort of turret. Would it be that one?"

They crossed the road for a better view of what was certainly a turret, empty-eyed and black against the blankness of fog. They went through the sagging gates and up a vaguely familiar drive to a columned portico. A little strange, this oldfashioned bell pull, but it produced a jangle, and soon the door opened to frame an aged man servant.

"Lady Wibbe——?" Alison essayed in a tentative murmur.

With instant, voiceless assent the butler stood aside to admit them.

David was out of his overcoat, looking very nice and taller than his six feet in his evening clothes. Alison let the old man take her brown broadtail coat and hang it in a dark coat cupboard. Now, the butler was shuffling toward a door farther along the dimly lighted hall.

Odd that two months ago she had not been struck by these brown-papered walls. Why, the furnishing looked mean, almost poverty stricken! Surely no need, Cynthia Wibbe with royalties from her book pouring in, and her husband a prosperous K. C.!

Suddenly, at the top of the stairs, some one opened a door, sending down a wave of warm, exotic scent at complete variance with the mustiness below. Alison knew that delicious fragrance. Bath essence—a guinea a bottle at Fortnum and Mason. Moreover, as a silken rustle betrayed, the opener of the door had paused at the head of the stairs to listen. It must be Lady Wibbe, only just finishing her bath—and with a wheezy clock striking nine, the hour for which they had been invited!

The room into which they were shown had a shade more warmth than the hall. Shut in by their guide, they stared round in rueful perplexity. A dining room? But what a room, with its huge atrocity of a sideboard, and the scratched, bulbous legged mahogany table with its satellite chairs drawn up close. Alison caught David's eye and shrugged defensively.

"Don't ask me," she whispered. "Some muddle, obviously. It must be all right, though, because—what's the matter?"

He was staring down at the table.

"Holy snakes!" he marveled. "Will you look at this?"

It was a gigantic jig-saw puzzle, occupying a full square yard of table surface. Funny for it to be here so soon after dinner.

David snatched up an old Tauchnitz book from the sideboard, thumbing its pages absently.

Then, down the long bare staircase outside soft steps began to descend.

David moved forward, braced to polite expectancy. Alison got ready her opening speech—and swallowed it in haste. Who was this person sidling nervously in on them? Tall, flat chested, dressed not at all for a party. . . . Of course, it must be Lady Wibbe's companion-secretary, and something must have happened too late for them to be put off.

"How do you do?" With a flat giggle the woman extended a hand limp as a dead fish. "I—I'm afraid I've kept you waiting."

An unexpected beginning which Alison dealt with as best she could.

"O, no! It's we who are early." Hesitating, she continued. "May I introduce my cousin, Mr. Beddoes, from New York?"

"Americans?"

"Yes, didn't you know?" answered Alison, puzzled by the flickering glance of question directed at their two faces and the increased nervousness in the woman's voice.

The woman had dropped David's hand as though it were a live coal, moved to the table, and in the circle of poor light was more clearly revealed. A spinster, undoubtedly—meager, pinched looking in her shabby uneven brown skirt, and chocolate brown cardigan buttoned up over a dingy flannel blouse. Obviously ineffectual and dismally lacking in social poise—how could a creature like this be employed by that successful author, Lady Wibbe?

"W-won't you sit down?"

Sit down—in here? Evidently that was her meaning.

Suddenly, in a blinding flash, Alison got the answer.

"O," she cried, "is it possible we've made some quite idiotic mistake? I mean, Lady Wibbe. Is this her house?"

"Lady Wibbe! O, I see! No, no"—hysterically. "Lady Wibbe lives next door. I—I thought you were Lady Wibbe. That is, I've never seen her, so—"

"How unutterably stupid of us!" Alison shot from her chair, excuses tumbling out of her. "It's dawned on me now. I said to your butler, 'Lady Wibbe?'—and he, very naturally, supposed I was announcing myself."

"So he did—tee hee!" The woman's giggle was schoolgirlish in its relief. "Parsons is getting old, which—"

"We were to blame," protested Alison, as David thrust her coat almost savagely upon her.

Her sentence was cut short. What was that scream from upstairs? Sharply it had rung out—a woman's voice in agony and fear.

A FUSION OF EAST AND WEST.

"Eloped?" Anne stammered, color leaping to her cheeks at the affectionate amusement of Mr. Trainor's glance from her to Steve. "She—she married Gerald?" she heard herself saying stupidly.

"Some one her father was opposed to. I forget his name, but——" Mr. Trainor broke off to call to the sherif, who came out on the porch alone. "All settled?"

Hank Cheeney nodded. "He's pretty well broke up about Gwen. I'll ride up and call Walt Myers off."

"I'll come with you." Mr. Trainor wheeled his horse as the sheriff mounted. "You two had better tell Whitey and the boys the coast is clear and to drive the herd up as fast as they can."

Anne watched the cloud of tan dust settle slowly over the rise in the mesa. She didn't dare trust her voice against the uneven beating of her heart.

Why didn't Steve say something?

In silence, they rode through the gate.

When at last they had left the Triangle 3 well behind them, Anne could stand the silence no longer. It said too much—or too little!

"Were you surprised about Gwen?" Once started, it was easier to go on than to wait for Steve's answer, easier not to hear his voice just yet. "I wasn't. I met them together, and there was something about them both—I was surprised then, because, you see, Gwen had told me that you and she were engaged." In consternation Anne heard her voice saying just what she'd determined not to say. "I—I hadn't heard it had been broken off," she ended in lame confusion.

"Gwen told you—Gwen said we were engaged?" Emotion surged under the careful restraint of Steve's voice. "When did she tell you that?"

"Way back. That time I went over to the Triangle 3. Before the dance." Anne felt herself beginning to tremble. Suppose it hadn't been true? Hadn't ever been true——

A hand reached over and gripped hers where it rested on the saddle horn.

"Anne, Anne, what fools we've been!"

Before Anne could begin to master the warm tide of incredible emotion that swept through her Steve was off his horse imperiously lifting her down.

"I can't straighten this out when you might let Rocket bolt any minute!" Singing elation ran through his laugh. "Anne, what fools we've been!" he repeated, steadying her trembling, pulling her close, closer in a straining embrace.

The mesa swayed crazily in the quivering heat. Anne's senses reeled with it in a mad whirl of happiness.

"Steve, Steve!" was all she could say when the magic interval that had swept them into infinity had passed. "Steve!"

Presently they were riding again, slowly, side by side. "I—I'm glad we were fools." Anne hardly dared raise her voice for fear her happiness would all dissolve in a dream. "This could never have been so wonderful if I hadn't thought I had to give you up."

"It's only the very beginning of how wonderful it's going to be," Steve said, his mind reaching into the future. "With our two ranches merged, Anne, Jake Collins' power on the range is broken for good and all. His political control will collapse of its own weight and we can bring decency and fair play back to the range." He paused, then said, slowly, "It wasn't like Gwen to lie that way. She'd be straight if it wasn't for her father. Now she's away from him she'll be a different person."

"I think she and Gerald will be happy together," Anne mused. "Their differences will be a sort of spicy bond—their east and west differences, I mean. Gerald needs some one strong and possessive like Gwen. He was ready to be married——"

"So was Gwen." Steve put his arm around Anne's shoulder and leaned down to press his cheek close to hers. "And so, sweetheart," he whispered, "are we!"

The horses came to a dead stop as Anne's lips gave lingering, wordless assent. The drowsy, singing, noonday peace of the mesa enveloped them, bringing a vision of the future together—a future rich with the depth and variety a fusion of east and west can bring.

Most of us who like to bake cookies prefer the refrigerator kind, cookie bars, or drop cookies to those we have to roll out. They're more quickly and easily made, they save on dishwashing, and they don't leave the kitchen all floury.

Refrigerator cookies are convenient, for the dough may be mixed any time you like and chilled in a roll until you're ready to bake it — tomorrow, next day, or next week. But if you want cookies now, not tomorrow or next week, the kind which may be spread in a baking pan or dropped from a spoon will be more satisfactory. Here are recipes for all three types:

Vanilla Refrigerator Cookies.

[About Seven Dozen.]

1 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar, packed firmly
2 beaten eggs
1 cup chopped nuts
1 tablespoon vanilla
4 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening and add sugars gradually. Mix until very light. Add beaten eggs, nuts, and vanilla. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Shape dough into rolls, wrap in wax paper, and chill overnight or until firm enough to slice. Slice thinly and bake cookies on an ungreased sheet at 425 degrees about 5 minutes.

Oatmeal-Graham Cracker Crisps.

[Two Dozen.]

⅓ cup butter or other shortening
¾ cup brown sugar, packed firmly
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup rolled oats
½ cup graham cracker crums
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts or coconut [or half of each]

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly together, add eggs, and beat well. Add vanilla. Add oatmeal and graham cracker crums to the other dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, and mix into the butter and sugar. Add nuts. Spread in a greased 9 inch pan and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees. Cut in squares while warm.

I came across this disremembered recipe in my files the other day. It was given to me years ago by the best cookie maker in the little town in which I grew up. These cookies were then my favorites and I'm sure I've never since eaten any better ones. I still call them after their originator.

Grace F.'s Drop Cookies.

[Six dozen.]

1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup dark corn sirup
1 cup sour milk
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 cup coconut
1 cup raisins
2 cups oatmeal

Cream shortening and sugar, beat in eggs, and add vanilla, salt and corn sirup. Mix well. Sift flour and soda together, and add alternately with sour milk. Mix in coconut, raisins, and oatmeal. Drop the cookies from a spoon onto a greased baking sheet, flatten a little with a spatula, and bake in a 425 degree oven.

Rouge Will Emphasize a Hollow Cheek if It Is Not Properly Applied

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Wonder why women continue to apply red rouge to the hollow of their cheeks?

They are told by every known beauty authority that it is the worst thing that they can do for their faces. Supposing they never read beauty advice, they still have their mirrors to reflect an unflattering picture of themselves.

It has been said that this is the fault of older women solely. It isn't true, however. We see young women with their cheeks, below the cheek bones, a mess of red, deceiving no one as to the legitimacy of the color. BUT the reason the younger ones escape censure is that their cheeks are not sunken and their color madness is just set down to bad taste or recklessness of youth.

The point for the older woman to register about rouge use is this: Red gives the face a sunken appearance at the point of application.

It is a million times better for the older woman to avoid rouge makeup entirely than to deepen the cheek hollows with its use. We have seen illustrated how improvement was accomplished with the abandonment of rouge, makeup concentrated on lips and perhaps, adroit eye-shadowing.

Chicagoans in East to Enjoy Music Festival

Louis Sherman Taylor, returned to Chicago last week from their summer home in the Berkshires.

Three engagement announcements of interest to Chicagoans were made in the east over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bateman Ewart of Ardsley-on-the-Hudson, New York, formerly of Winnetka, announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Jane, to Howard Weaver McCall Jr. of New York and Chattanooga, Tenn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weaver McCall of Chattanooga.

Miss Margaret Coolidge Engaged to Chicagoan.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Lowell Coolidge of Lowell house, Cambridge, Mass., announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Charles Stacy French of Cambridge, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ephraim French of Lowell, Mass.

Miss Coolidge attended the Oldfields school in Glencoe, Md., and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin. She is a member of the Junior league and the Vincent club. Mr. French prepared at Loomis institute for Harvard from which he was graduated in 1930. He is now an instructor at the University of Chicago. The wedding will take place this fall.

William Giblin of Pelham, N. Y., has announced the engagement of his daughter, Roseleen, to Jerome J. Crowley Jr. of South Bend, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Crowley of Chicago.

Josephine Smart Will Be Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smart of Geneva, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Josephine, to Charles F. Nowe of Washington, D. C. Miss Smart attended National Park seminary. Mr. Nowe is a graduate of Villanova college in Pennsylvania and Georgetown Law school. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

The Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Lee Wilson have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lee, to John King Mitchell of Boston. Dr. Wilson is rector of the Kenwood Interdenominational church at 4633 Greenwood avenue.

Miss Lois Thompson Wil Be Debutante.

The junior John R. Thompsons definitly have decided to introduce to society their second daughter, Miss Lois Thompson, during the present season. Miss Thompson, who was graduated from the Emma Willard school last June, is at home this year. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will give a party for her at Christmas time.

The Casino, which has been dark all summer, will reopen today at noon. Undoubtedly there will be a number of members and guests there to enjoy the first luncheon served in three months. The president, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, will not be among them, for she will be at Mrs. Robert J. Thorne's in Lake Forest. Mrs. Thorne is entertaining at luncheon for the large committee in charge of the St. Luke's fashion show, and Mrs. Hibbard always is one of the most active members of that committee. The show this year will be on Oct. 18 in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Until the recent Asbury Park tournament came along, I was unaware that "ace showing," as an immediate response to an opening two bid, still was prevalent and, therefore, saw no reason to inveigh against this practice. As reported in this column last week, however, the action of several alleged experts at that tournament made me realize that I had better enter the lists against this insidious system. Last week I showed that a dozen teams in the aforesaid tournament reached the wrong final contract because of the immediate ace showing response to an opening two bid.

Now let us look at today's hand and note the difficulties that such a response would throw in the path of the North-South team.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A J 9 5 3
♥ Q 10 9 5
♦ 9 6
♣ Q 7

WEST
♥ 8 6 4
♦ 8 5 4 2
♣ J 10 6 4

EAST
♠ Q 10 7 2
♦ 10 7 3
♣ K 9 5 3 2

SOUTH
♠ K 6
♥ A K J 3 2
♦ A K Q J
♣ A 8

As actually bid in a rubber bridge game by Culbertson players, the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 spades	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, this was the correct contract and fulfillment offered not the slightest difficulty. One of the dummy's clubs found a safe resting place on South's diamond suit, and declarer easily could ruff his only loser, the club eight.

Now let us see what "ace-showers" could do with this hand. The first two rounds of bidding would, of course, go as above, that is, South would open with two hearts, North would, as before, respond with two spades, South would then bid three diamonds, and North would jump to four hearts. But where would this leave the partnership? Remember, under this system South could depend on North only for the spade ace, not for a spade suit. From South's point of view, North's bidding might well represent such a hand as

♠ A x x ♥ Q 10 9 x ♦ x x ♣ Q x x x

North's bidding would be exactly the same with this holding as with the one in the actual deal. But now there would be a losing club trick of which South could not possibly dispose. There would be no sense in South's bidding four no trump at this point, because he already had learned about the spade ace. He could, of course, make a cue bid in clubs at the five level, but North would be unable to bid a grand slam and, regardless of what other response he made, South also would have to be content with a small slam.

It must be obvious that the holder of a huge hand will want to know the distribution as well as the aces held by his partner. In the approved bidding reported directly below the hand, South could be absolutely sure of thirteen tricks. He not only knew North had the spade ace and excellent heart support, but could account for at least eight cards in North's hand that must be in the major suits. Hence, North could have only five cards in the minor suits and South's five tricks in those suits would take care of them.

In case any readers still cling to the immediate ace showing response after an opening two bid, I strongly recommend that they reconsider their position.

Child's Days at School Are Too Sedentary

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

With the free, open, active days of vacation already a thing of the past, or with a young child's school life just begun, a sharp contrast in living has taken place for your boy or girl. Have you ever thought much about it?

Did you ever think how largely mental a child's school life is?

You might say that the average child, after he once starts going to school, lives a rather sedentary life. Mental and sedentary.

But what he needs is a different sort of life. Children need to do things physically, to use their hands, to move about, to have opportunity for the alert use of their five senses. Five hours or so of every day of their childhood should not be spent physically confined and mentally occupied.

Some day all our schools will be built around the child's needs.

We should, as much as lies within our power, see that our children have the other things they need after school and in their week-ends and summers.

What are these things? Lots of time outdoors in free play. A chance for manual or craft activity—carpentry, metal work, weaving, and so forth. This means that the tools and supplies must be available, of course.

What else do they need?

A chance for artistic expression. Every child should have access to drawing materials, painting materials, and clay for modeling. Also, he should have some quiet and leisure in which to write if he has the inspiration, and access to some musical instrument or encouragement to learn to experiment in music.

I also believe that every child should have some contact with the country and with animals—that is, with nature.

THE STAGE

Beginning with Wednesday's matinée of "Golden Boy" at the Harris theater, the gangster rôle of Eddie Fuseli will be played by Sanford Meisner instead of Elia Kazan. Mr. Kazan, who is a producer for the Group theater as well as an actor, returns to New York to prepare new productions. Shortly before "Golden Boy" closes on Oct. 8 he will return to alternate with Mr. Meisner in the rôle.

The run of "Power," the Federal theater's "living newspaper" dealing with public utilities, closes at the Blackstone theater Sunday evening. The same night will witness the opening of the Federal theater's all-Negro version of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" at the Great Northern theater.

Chicago Salvation Army Holds Prayers for Peace

A day of prayer for peace was observed yesterday by all members of the Salvation Army in Chicago. Throughout the city all shelters were open all day for meditation and personal prayer, with special peace services at the regular worship hours. The day of prayer was worldwide, ordered by Gen. Evangeline Booth.

Crochet Design Affords Delicate Edge for Linens

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Have you noticed how quickly your appetite revives when a dainty tray with service and food fit for a king is set before you? The tray cloth is the basis for the entire effect. The crochet edging is done in the popular flower and wheel pattern and worked on white or ecru linen rather than the pastels. These two neutral shades afford a perfect background for any type of service. The finished cloth measures 12 by 18 inches, and the length of time required to make the lace edging is negligible.

For instructions for crocheting the edging in the flower and wheel design used on the tray cloth, No. X-77, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Unites Shirtwaist and Dirndl

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A trig little frock combining the virtues of both the shirtwaist and the dirndl modes is the pattern we're presenting today. It's decidedly youthful and unites a tailored air with dressiness. The basque effect in the bodice hugs the contours of the figure. The sleeves are delightfully puffed but have trim shirtwaist style cuffs in keeping with the simple collar. The skirt is shirring just under the bodice, but it isn't bulky. Dirndl lines have succumbed to common sense styling, and no longer destroy the basic lines of the silhouette.

All kinds of silks and the lighter weight woolens make up attractively. Don't forget the exquisite beauty of velvet, if you want an attractive dress for informal social occasions. You can style the neckline V and give it a bow that is part and parcel of a narrow rolled collar, if you like.

Embroidery is exceedingly popular these days, and we're suggesting pattern No. E-705 for the shoulder of this dress. It's available for 15 cents extra.

Style No. 2615 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Behind the scenes there is the last frantic rush to match costumes with the proper new accessories and then to match outfits to the right willowy, glamorous mannequin.

In front of the curtains, an expectant audience waiting to enjoy what is, without waste of argument, the most exciting of all events, the official presentations of new fall and early winter fashions.

This week marks the openings in every shop and store in town. Everything will be on parade. Daytime clothes, swanky tweeds, romantic evening gowns, flirtatious dinner and afternoon outfits, some of the most spectacular fur fashions ever unpacked and the newest of heart breakers—the fur coat costumes. Any day this week you can be regaled with a good exciting fashion show. Hats, gloves, bags, footgear, and other important costume accessories will be shown with the right dresses or suits and coats. Every new color combine, every new exciting fabric, new streamlines, new skirt lengths, and the newest of jackets.

If you have been passive about the new season your present assortment of clothes appears a bit dull. But the first of these fall fashion shows will revive your interest.

The new clothes are irresistibly feminine, as different as anything you've seen for years. Gone are the strictly tailored and the casual clothes that could take you through from dawn till dusk. These new arrivals are made to make you change for every occasion.

CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is luxury day in this department. We want to tell you about the height of luxury—and quality—in what we usually think of as a standby sort of item that could never be especially exciting. It's a cleansing cream made and packaged in Paris and it is de luxe in every sense of the word.

This is the product of one of the Big Three of the perfume world. They can be just as proud of it as they are of their perfumes. It's as luxuriously fine as they are. It is a light textured cream, as beautifully efficient a cleanser as we have ever seen. We thought, when we first tried it, that it was just a cleanser. It was the texture that fooled us. It is a softener as well.

We've given it a thorough trial for the last two or three months and are probably spoiled for life; we'll be wanting it from now on.

The price needs thinking about. Naturally the cream is not cheap, what with the freight and the duty and what-not. But it is tops in quality and that's a big point in its favor. Then, too, it comes in a huge seven ounce jar. [A plain jar, by the way; no fancy package.] But most important is the fact that you need use so very little of it. It's amazing in this respect. If you think the price of the jar is too steep, there is a tube, containing less, which costs exactly half.

This is distinctly a cleansing cream for the woman who wants the best of everything and who can afford to buy it. It develops from a survey of the stores, that there are a surprising number of women who swear by this cream and pay for it.

Carson's presents for fall opening week...

the new mode of Elegance

Enter, Fall 1938, the modern beauty — as devastating in her superb elegance as the ravishing Langtry or Boldini's "Mlle. B." She borrows the violet-scented romanticism of the Edwardians — infuses it with a witty elegance of her own. Her shining hair is brushed high. Her hat is small and perches over one eye — perilous, provocative. Tiny waist — ballooning leg o' mutton sleeves. She revels in the exquisite new colors. She uses black as a foil for her blazing fabulous jewels. A sculptured sheath at dinner, slim and shining as a blade — she wears alluring billowing skirts with breath-taking décolletage for balls, delicious jeweled combs in her hair. Very worldly and unutterably dashing, she achieves her flawless elegance by her choice of fine fabrics and designs adapted to her own personality and way of life. She is, of course, the new you — the magnificent, the true élégante.

The new silhouettes for daytime, "fullness above and slimness below" or vice versa . . . the bound waist and full skirt of Zouave influence . . . bloused backs . . . "skating silhouette" with its short flaring skirt. Evening fashions highlight slim sheaths or the very bouffant with billowing skirts supported by crinolines, ruffled petticoats or hoops.

The new sleeves

Mainbocher favors the dolman Schiaparelli launched the modified leg o' mutton to follow your new up-swept curls. Long tight sleeves . . . more short sleeves for afternoon . . . long sleeves astonishingly enough on formal gowns. Billowing Bishop sleeves . . .the new bracelet-length. They follow the line of your hair or billow to accent your tiny waist.

The new colors

riot gloriously all through the mode. Violets in expansive array, bright for evening, dark for conservative chic. Lovely purple reds, new mauve pinks for evening. Blues and greens are fascinating. Strange new shades of "Bitter root," "Willow", "Blue Spruce". Wear two shades of color or for a very new breed of chic—wear a single color from tip to toe.

The new hats

are the conversation piece of the fall. Designed for the new silhouette of the small coiffed head —they're small, high on your curls or perched over one eye and lashed on with a whoosh of veiling. Chechias, pillboxes, tricornes, berets. Fur hats are marvelous . . . velvets with plumes . . felts with feathers shooting off at amusing angles. They're charming and very wearable.

The new jewelry

plays a leading gleaming role. BEARS BEAT PACKERS, 2-0; SCORE IN LAST QUARTER

FAULTY PASSES FROM CENTER WHIP GREEN BAY

15,172 Watch Rivals Battle in Rain.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 18.—The Chicago Bears remained undefeated in the National Football league race today by the grace of a kind fate and the uncertainty of Center Darrell Lester's passing. Battled to a standstill by an inspired Green Bay line, the Bears escaped from the mud and rain of Packer stadium with a 2 to 0 victory, scored on a safety resulting from Lester's two consecutive wild throws in the fourth quarter.

Darrell Lester.

Lester, who represented Texas Christian university on the Tribune's All-Star squad in 1936, had returned to the game as relief for Ookie Miller, former Bear star, at the start of the fourth period. His first pass to Arnie Herber, back in punt formation, sailed high over Herber's head for a twenty-nine yard loss, placing the ball on the Packers' 4 yard line. His second pass also was wild and got away from Herber. In the mêlée that followed, Tom Jones, veteran guard, recently purchased by the Packers from the New York Giants, recovered the ball for the safety that was to prove an insurmountable lead and bring the Bears victory.

Rain, Rain and More Rain.

A crowd of 15,172 waded through gutters filled with water and silt to reach the stadium and sit in a driving rain for the annual meeting between the two western division rivals.

Strictly for Green Bay, the crowd ran the gamut of football emotions as the Packers hurled back the Bears' powerhouse and twice put on drives that seemed destined to score. One Packer thrust in the third period advanced 58 yards to the Bears' 7 yard line. Another, begun in the final minutes of play, carried 29 yards to the Bears' 22 yard line. Both ended on missed place kicks by Clark Hinkle, veteran full back, who is regarded as half the equal of the Bears' famous Jack Manders. Hinkle's first attempt was from the 16 yard line, his second from the 36 yard line. Both were wide.

Packers' Line Plays Brilliantly.

The game was a tussle between a line that entered the game as one of the finest in football, but hardly lived up to its reputation, and another which was lightly regarded but rose to the heights. The Bears were held at bay throughout the game by the fighting Packer forwards and the punting of Hinkle and Cecil Isbell, star of the 1938 All-Star game. The Chicagoans advanced past midfield only four times.

A 30 yard return of a punt by Ray Nolting, a 9 yard pass, Bernie Masterson to Dick Plasman, and plunges by Manders and Nolting carried them to the Packers' 40 yard line in the first period. Another punt return by Nolting, this one for 22 yards, took them to the Packers' 29 yard line in the second period, from which point Manders missed a placekick on fourth down. Full Back Bert Johnson crossed midfield on a 10 yard plunge in the third period, only to fumble when tackled and lose the ball. And in the fourth quarter Nolting recovered a fumble on the 46 yard line.

Packers Gain Most Ground.

Statistically it was a Packer day. They outgained the Bears 118 yards to 75 yards and made nine first downs to the Bears' four. The Bears attempted nine passes and completed only one for a gain of 9 yards. Three of Green Bay's eight passes found receivers

It All Depends on New Men at Marquette

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 18.—Sophomores hold the key to Marquette university's football season. Twenty-three on the squad of thirty-eight boys now in training are newcomers, but despite the evident ability of several of these Coach Paddy Driscoll and his assistants, Tarz Taylor and Red Dunn, have reason to worry when they think of the schedule.

Marquette opens a week from Saturday with its state rival, the University of Wisconsin, and follows with Southern Methodist in Soldiers' field, Chicago, on the night of Oct. 7. The Mustangs are the first of four southwestern teams on the Marquette schedule. The others are Texas Christian, Texas Tech, and Arizona. Kansas State and Iowa State, from the Big Six conference, and the veteran Michigan State eleven, complete the Marquette program.

Won Three Games Last Year.

This is unquestionably the most difficult football schedule Con Jennings, director of athletics, ever has arranged for Marquette. Last year Marquette won three games, defeating Ripon, South Dakota, and Duquesne. The 13 to 6 victory over Duquesne in the final game of the year was the greatest achievement of the 1937 squad, which was handicapped by graduation of the back field stars of the year before and by injury to promising sophomores. Marquette met and lost to Santa Clara and Villanova, two of the nation's undefeated teams, but Marquette was the only team to score against Villanova.

The present squad is the smallest in Marquette history. This immediately points to disaster should any of the regulars be forced out, as were several of last year's stars. Fear of injury also holds back the development of the team, for in every scrimmage there is the danger a valuable player may be lost. Driscoll adds that the tackle and center positions are the present problems. Inexperience is a general charge against all of the new men.

Excellent Spirit Evident.

The squad has excellent spirit and is enthusiastic. The boys also are learning more rapidly than last year's team. "Marquette now has more plays than the 1937 team learned in the entire season," Driscoll said. "The team also knows how to use these plays. Last year the squad had difficulty learning assignments and

111 WOMEN OPEN PLAY TODAY FOR U. S. GOLF CROWN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., the young woman whose meticulous study of golf was rewarded with the national title last year, will begin defense of the women's championship of the United States Golf association this morning at the Westmoreland Country club.

Mrs. Page and 110 other feminine stars will set forth in the first national tournament to come to Chicago since 1933, when both the American women's and open titles were decided here. An eighteen hole qualifying round will be played today, the low sixty-four scorers gaining the match play bracket. This will open with a single round of eighteen hole matches tomorrow, with two such matches scheduled for Wednesday. The eight survivors of these three rounds will battle through eighteen holes Thursday, the winners meeting in Friday's eighteen hole semi-finals. Saturday's championship match will be played over thirty-six holes.

She Faces Hard Task.

The defending champion realizes that she has a real task cut out for her if she would retain her title, and has prepared accordingly. Whereas a number of her leading rivals in the field have sharpened their golf by participation in regular competition, Mrs. Page has confined herself to a rigid routine of daily practice. Much of this has been supervised by her father, Dr. Robert Lawson of the University of North Carolina.

It was Dr. Lawson who first interested his daughter in golf as recently as the spring of 1933, when he brought back four clubs from a New York visit. With these he gave her instruction in the university's gymnasium and later on the little nine hole course at Chapel Hill. The two were faithful attendants at the north and south open of that spring in nearby Pinehurst. There they diagnosed the swings of leading pros. This program finally was put into practice at the 1933 southern tournament, in which Mrs. Page reached the semi-finals with those same four clubs.

You Remember Patty.

Since then the 31 year old Phi Beta Kappa scholar has set up one of the most remarkable records in sport. She has won the qualifying medal the last two years, and defeated Patty Berg in last year's final in Memphis. In the north and south qualifying round last spring she won the medal

Yanks Lose 2, but Capture A. L. Pennant

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy's New York Yankees became champions of the American league for the third straight year today, but it was under embarrassing circumstances—the loss of two games to the lowly St. Louis Browns. The Brownies fought from behind in each contest to win, 4 to 3, and 8 to 7.

Cold weather in Chicago enabled the Yanks mathematically to clinch the 1938 flag, as Boston's double-header with the White Sox was canceled. If the Yanks were to lose all their remaining games and the second place Red Sox were to win all theirs, the Yanks still would be in front.

Celebration Is Put Off.

However, Manager McCarthy would not permit his boys to hold the customary victory celebration until they "really clinch the title by winning a game."

The double triumph lifted the St. Louis club out of the cellar, one point in front of the Athletics, who split with Cleveland.

Don Heffner's double and Mel Almada's single in the seventh inning decided the first game. The Yanks opened colorfully with a three run lead sparked by Lou Gehrig's homer. But Buck Newsom settled down to blank the champions the rest of the way and register his 18th victory. Newsom struck out ten. Red Ruffing, the losing pitcher, was trying for his 22d victory.

Clift Is Star.

The Browns got off to a 4 to 0 lead in the second game when Harlond Clift hit a homer in the first inning with the bases loaded. Then, after New York had forged ahead, 7 to 4, Clift crashed another homer, his thirty-third of the season, into the left field bleachers with a man on base.

This left them trailing by one run as they went into their half of the

If—

If the Pirates win eight of the sixteen games remaining on their schedule, the Cubs, with fifteen to go, must take at least eleven to tie for the National league pennant. The Chicagoans would need twelve triumphs to win the title.

Cincinnati, which has fifteen games left, needs at least thirteen victories to beat out Pittsburgh on the same basis, while the Giants, who also have fifteen to go, need fourteen triumphs to tie. Only a sweep would give the New Yorkers the flag.

PIRATES DEFEAT PHILLIES, 1 TO 0; TIE SECOND, 1 TO 1

Pittsburgh Wins Opener in Ninth Inning.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, aiming for the National league pennant, played through 14 soggy innings with the Phillies today to add one victory and a tie to their standing.

Russ Bauers held the Phils to four hits in the opening game and won, 1 to 0, in the ninth. Paul Waner's single with two out scored Dickshot, pinch running for Al Todd. The second game was called in the fifth inning because of darkness with the score at 1 and 1.

After Dickshot went to first on Todd's single in the ninth of the opener, Bauers struck out. L. Waner sacrificed Dickshot to second. Paul Waner then slammed the ball into center.

The Phils made a serious bid for a run in the second inning when, with one out, Arnovich doubled and Whitney singled, but the Pirates quelled the uprising with a fast double play.

PIRATES KNOCK ON WOOD; PLAN NEW BLEACHERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirate management knocked on wood yesterday and applied to the city bureau of building inspection for permission to erect bleachers to accommodate a world series crowd.

Secretary Sam Watters said the request was but a formality, adding:

"As a matter of fact the bleachers have already been built. All we have to do is put them up and win some more ball games."

The stands seat about 2,500 and bring the field's capacity to between 41,000 and 42,000.

Good-by to a Tree.

I passed a group of workmen cutting down a tree.
A sudden pang of pain assailed my heart,
Maybe I'm plain foolish, but it seems
A tree is such a prize with which to part.

I realize, of course, that trees, like men,
Must go their way, their day of service through,
Yes, trees, like men, must bow to marching years—
Life's so devised, the old gives way to new.

The thing that hurt me as I watched this scene—
I heard the workmen laughing merrily,
But they were rather young—they didn't think
Just what it meant, this cutting down a tree.

The whole long span of these young workmen's life
Is not enough to grow another one,
And so, good-by, you grand old sentinel,
Spreading your last arms to the setting sun.

Gone many years are those who perhaps have known
The solace of your shade from summer's blight,
Gone, too, the lovers young who whispered low
Beneath your boughs on many a moonlit night.
It seems to me as though it's somehow wrong—
For we can never give it back, you see.
That's why I want to weep when I must watch
Men at work—cutting down a tree!

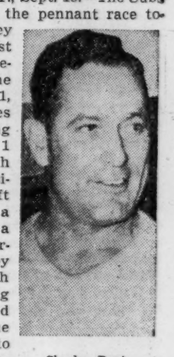
DODGERS ROUT ROOT WITH FOUR RUNS IN THIRD

Second Battle Goes Only Five Innings.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The Cubs lost a game in the pennant race today when they dropped the first half of a double-header with the Dodgers, 4 to 1, while the Pirates were conquering the Phillies, 1 to 0. But with all this sad business the lads left Ebbets field in a merry mood as a result of a terrific stand they made in the fifth and last inning of the second game, to hold the Dodgers to a 3 to 3 tie after the Flatbushers had loaded the bases with none out.



Charley Root.

A few minutes after the second game here had been ended, to be played off as part of a double-header tomorrow, word was flashed that the Pirates also had finished their second game in a tie with the Phillies. So the Cubs face tomorrow's heavy trafic three and one-half games behind the Pittsburghers, the Pirates with sixteen games to play, the Cubs with fifteen.

Root Is No Puzzle.

The Dodgers hopped on Charley Root for five hits and all their four runs in the third inning of the first game before Dizzy Dean arrived to halt things. The Dodgers scored no runs thereafter, the Cubs their one in the sixth inning. The Cubs were so elated over the halting of the Dodgers in the fifth and last inning of the second game, that some time elapsed before they recalled that they should have won it.

They led, 1 to 0 in the first, but Larry French tossed that one off in the second inning. Then they led, 3 to 1, after their half of the third on a triple by Bill Herman and singles by Augie Galan and Carl Reynolds, only to see Larry pitch his home run ball to Sington, with one on and two out in the third to establish the tie which prevailed to the end, thanks to a miraculous defense in the Dodgers' final inning.

This Was a Narrow Escape.

It had been agreed at the start of the inning that the fifth would be the last, which may have made French eager to duck his nineteenth defeat of the year. The Dodgers' half opened with a pass to Camilli. Sington shot a double play ball toward Jurges, but Bill skidded in the muddy going and the grounder went for a hit. Russell replaced French and Lavagetto bunted in front of the plate, but O'Dea couldn't grasp the ball and the bases were loaded on the error. Rosen batted for Hayworth and fanned. Campbell batted for Durocher and started a liner toward right center but Herman leaped high into the air, speared the ball with one hand, then tagged Lavagetto who had fallen in an attempt to go into reverse, for a double play.

FIRST GAME

The Dodgers did all their dastardly work in a very few minutes of the first game. They slipped up on Root in the third inning after failing to make a hit in the first two innings. In that brief third inning span they made their four runs and five of their eight hits.

Dizzy Dean got the side out in the third, then pitched four innings in which he yielded two hits, walked one and struck out one. Tex Carleton pitched the ninth. Tex yielded one hit, struck out one and gave an intentional pass. It was the first occasion that Dean has pitched more than one inning since Aug. 20. It

ESPOSA VICTORY IN THE GOLD CUP STARTS A DEBATE

Challenges Marica for 'Best Mare' Rating.

BY FRENCH LANE.

When Esposa carried her Hawthorne Gold Cup aboard a train bound for Belmont Park yesterday, she left a lot of racegoers in the central states wondering whether she or Thomas D. Taggart's Marica should be called the best race mare in the country.

The two are standouts. They have met once. It was at Delaware Park in Wilmington on July 9, in a mile and a quarter $10,000 race. Marica was the winner by four lengths. Marica gave Esposa eight pounds that day and ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 2-5.

However, Esposa has run a mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5 at Belmont Park, but she had only 105 pounds on her back. There probably will be another meeting this autumn between Marica and Esposa in New York or Maryland, because the arguments as to their relative abilities are becoming just about as hot and thick as are those concerning War Admiral and Seabiscuit.

Recovers From Foot Ailment.

After her only defeat this year in the Narragansett Special by Stagehand, it was for a time feared that Marica's racing days were ended. There was a foot ailment. Sand had become imbedded in a front hoof and inflammation had set in. The trouble responded readily to treatment, however, and the clocker's work sheets at Maryland late last week revealed that she had galloped a half mile in :48 2-5 seconds in a training test. This indicates that she soon will be ready for any kind of a brush with Esposa.

Esposa's next engagement is, according to present plans, in the Jockey club gold cup at Belmont. Seabiscuit and War Admiral also are in that race. War Admiral has demonstrated in four races this year that he is better than Esposa. Seabiscuit and Esposa have not met this season, the heavy track at Hawthorne having frightened Seabiscuit away from the race.

Third Week at Hawthorne.

The Hawthorne meeting goes into its third week today. It offers one of the best week day programs of the autumn season. In the feature, a dash at six furlongs, the gray filly Manie O'Hara will be going after her sixth victory of the Chicago season. Opposing her will be Mrs. Emil Denemark's Vassar; Thomas Piatt's Dixie Girl; Frank Robertson's Sly Gal and Mrs. N. J. Scallon's Sister Polly. Manie O'Hara likely will rule as the 2 to 1 favorite.

111 Golfers Open Women's Meet Today

with a 69, a record for established competition.

Mention of Patty Berg brings up the No. 1 tournament golfer of 1938 women's play. The little Minneapolis redhead has played in twelve tournaments this year and has won nine. Two were won in Chicago, the women's western Derby at Butterfield and the western closed at Olympia Fields. In the former she shot a record 308, which included a 73 in the rain. Saturday she sampled Westmoreland with a 75, 4 under par, and the same number of shots under the course record.

Thus Mrs. Page and Miss Berg will be favorites to win the medal in today's qualifying round. They will have plenty of competition, however, in such stars as Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Edwin H. Vare of Philadelphia, six times winner of the title; Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City; Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C.; Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga.; Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J.; Charlotte Glutting of South Orange, N. J.; Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, and Chicago's Virginia Ingram, who won her first district title at Westmoreland.

Britain Well Represented.

The entire British Curtis cup team, with the exception of Mrs. Andrew Holm and Elsie Corlett, will be present today, aided by Mrs. A. C. Critchley, the former Diana Fishwick, who once held the British crown. Mrs. Critchley last week played the difficult Oakmont course better than half of the contestants in the national men's amateur field.

Three withdrawals were announced last night—Eleanor Dudley of Chicago, Sally Guth of St. Louis, and Mrs. F. J. Holleran of Greenwich, Conn. Yesterday's raw weather confined most of the field to the clubhouse. The weather man last night indicated fair and cool for today.

CHICAGO COAST GUARD OARSMEN MEET BUFFALO

The champion surf boat crew of the old Chicago coast guard station will compete in a two mile race tomorrow afternoon with the crew of the Buffalo, N. Y., coast guard, title holders in the 9th district. The race will begin at the wall of the new locks at the mouth of the river and will end in Burnham park, just south of 13th street.

Capt. John Anderson said that if the local crew is victorious tomorrow, the men will go east to compete with other sectional champions. His crew, which has defeated every station on the west side of Lake Michigan, is composed of Coxswain Philip Barnard, Leon Anderson, James Lockhart, Jack Rodgers, Fred Cenane, Inglois Madson, Francis Hutton, George Ware, and Louis Hutzler.

Celebron Faces Ken Overlin in Marigold Ring

Billy Celebron, who defeated Tony Zale in his last appearance, will be given an opportunity to achieve national recognition in a ten round bout with Ken Overlin, globe trotting middleweight who calls Decatur, Ill., his home town, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Inasmuch as Overlin, who did considerable fighting while a sailor on the U. S. S. Utah from 1927 to 1933, has a record of 103 victories as against ten defeats and one draw Celebron has picked out a difficult task for himself.

During training in Trafton's gymnasium last week Overlin showed considerable skill. This may explain his conquest of Fred Apostoli, high ranking contender, in New York last year. Ken also holds a decision over Hayden Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., who clashes with Champion Al Hostak in a nontitle contest in Seattle this evening.

Billy expects to weigh 157 pounds and Overlin 160. Supporting matches:

Frankie Sagilio vs. Phil Saeli [5], 140.
Norman Roth vs. Joe O'Signac [4], 152.
Frankie Agnes vs. Bob Tinsley [4], 138.
Johnny Williams vs. George Nyberg [4], 147.

Two bouts will head the wrestling card tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Al Williams is paired with Bert Rubi and Jack Claybourn with Hans Schnabel. Other encounters will bring together Fritz Schnabel and George Becker, Jack Brown and Pete Sherman, and George Mansor and Mike Markoff. F. M.

PABST BOWLERS ROLL 3,237 TO DEFEAT SCHLITZ

The Pabst Blue Ribbons bowled 1,070, 1,147, and 1,030 for a 3,237 series against the Schlitz Beers, who shot 1,058, 1,089, and 1,059 for 3,215 last night in Samuelson's Arcade. The Pabsts won two games. By winning twice from the Monarch Beers, the Power House Candy Bars retained their league lead.

The Baby Ruth Candies won three games from the Prager Beers, and the Ambrosia Beers defeated the Thompson Restaurants. The Pabst Blue Ribbons, Baby Ruth Candies, and Ambrosia Beers are all in a tie for second place. Les Fuller's 702 was high series and Paul Krumske bowled 259 for high game of the evening. Scores:

3 Missing Illinois Players Will Enter Washington U.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bud Schwenk, one of three sophomores who quit the University of Illinois football squad and returned home Friday, told Coach Jimmy Conzelman today he will enter Washington university tomorrow. The former St. Louis High school star said the other two, Gene Blades and Leroy Harrison of Alton, probably would register there also.

Chicago Joins U. S. in Paying Tribute to Dog

BY BOB BECKER.

All this week thousands of American dog owners will observe National Dog week. The governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Nevada, Maryland, Massachusetts, and Texas have endorsed this idea of paying tribute to America's dog population. In scores of cities there will be dog parades, dog meetings, dog shows, and other similar events calling attention to the service that dogs render to man.

Chicago dog owners will hold one meeting in observance of National Dog week. It is scheduled for this Wednesday night at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Anti-Cruelty Society building, 157 West Grand avenue. John J. Roberts, president of the Anti-Cruelty society, will preside.

Founder to Speak.

Among the speakers will be Capt. Will Judy of Chicago, originator of National Dog week. Others include Buell Patterson, C. E. Harbison of the International Kennel club of Chicago, and Dr. R. L. Tinkham, former president of the Chicago Veterinary Medical association. The public is invited.

National Dog week this year again finds the canine industry one of the most important in the United States. An industry based on man's affection for the dog, it now is in the $125,000,000 group. More than $60,000,000 was spent last year on foods for dogs. Millions more were spent for fine imported show dogs, for hunting dogs useful to the 6,000,000 licensed hunters in the United States, field trial dogs, and for kennels, leashes, and other accessories.

Here Are Objectives.

The seven objectives of National Dog week are as follows:

1. A good home for every dog.
2. Eliminate stray dogs from the street.
3. Disseminate the actual truth about rabies.
4. Educate dog owners in the obligations both to their dogs and to the public generally.
5. Teach kindness and consideration by children and adults toward dogs and animals in general.
6. Emphasize the use of the dog as home protector, faithful companion, and useful servant to mankind.
7. Secure fair and just laws for dogs and their owners, but also to respect the rights of those who do not own dogs.

TIGERS BATTER SENATORS FOR 8 TO 1 VICTORY

Greenberg Gets Single, Bonura a Homer.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Washington Senators halted Hank Greenberg's home run record campaign temporarily today but bowed to Tommy Bridges' pitching as Detroit won, 8 to 1.

Greenberg was able to get only a single, but the rest of the Tigers mauled three Washington pitchers for 13 hits.

Zeke Bonura hit a homer in the seventh for the lone Senator run.

GEORGE OLSON IS NAMED COACH AT NORTH PARK

George Olson, athletic director of North Park college, has been appointed head football coach, succeeding Ed [Dutch] Sternaman, who for several seasons coached the Vikings.

Olson was graduated from Wheaton college in 1934, where he was a football player. He is a brother to Oliver [Ollie] Olson, former Northwestern football player.

Wilbur Anderson, an Illinois graduate and physical education instructor at North Park, will continue as back field coach. North Park has also announced its fall schedule. It follows:

Oct. 1, at Aurora; Oct. 8, at Morton; Oct. 14, Wright at North Park; Oct. 22, Wilson at North Park; Oct. 29, at Morgan Park; Nov. 12, Lisle at North Park.

Sox Rest Again; Play Two with Boston Today

The White Sox, who were supposed to play a double-header with Boston's Red Sox in Comiskey park yesterday, and couldn't get outdoors because of cold weather, will try it again this afternoon in a twin bill with the same enemy. But yesterday's bargain bill is gone for keeps, making a total of three games lopped from the Chicagoan's official allotment of 154.

The quartet of pitchers ticketed for an appearance yesterday will be on the job this afternoon, unless one or both of the rival managers awaken this morning with a bright thought. For the home Sox it will be Monty Stratton and Thornton [Lefty] Lee. Boston's offerings will be Joe Heving and Bill Harris, both of whom can credit their assignments to the fact that they troubled the White Sox recently during a series in Boston.

Tomorrow the world champion Yankees, who merely are keeping in trim for an eventual engagement with an undisclosed National league entrant in the world series, will be here for the first of a three game series.

Vito Is Too Good.

Vito Tamulis stood the Cubs on their heads in most of the innings. The Chicagoans made only seven hits and when they did hit usually were hampered by double plays, of which the Dodgers executed three. Hack singled at the start of the game; Reynolds singled and stole second in the second; Herman led off the fourth with a single and Hartnett opened the fifth with a single. Jurges also singled in the fifth, but a double play blighted this threat. After a double play in the sixth, the Cubs made their only run on a double by Demaree and a single by Augie Galan, this socking concluding the Chicago hitting for the contest.

Here's the record of the base hit shower that fell on Root in the third and brought Dean galloping to the scene: Jurges slipped and fell after capturing Durocher's grounder, and Leo was credited with Brooklyn's first hit. Tamulis fanned, but Hockett singled to right, Durocher taking third. Hudson singled to right, Durocher scoring and Hudson stopping at second. Koy doubled to right center, scoring Hockett and Hudson.

Cubs Get One.

Camilli walked, after which Galan went to the wall for Sington's drive, Koy taking third. Lavagetto singled to center, scoring Koy. Dean replaced Root and walked Campbell, filling the bases. Durocher forced Campbell.

The Cubs broke through after being slowed in the sixth by the third Dodger double play. Hack drew Tamulis' first pass, but Camilli grabbed Herman's hot liner and stepped on first to double Hack. Demaree crashed a double off the left field wall and scored on Galan's single to left. Reynolds lifted high to Sington.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs, in the second game, celebrated French's first start since Aug. 23, by getting a run in the first inning. Hack singled to center and reached second while Durocher was throwing out Herman. Cavarretta was hit by a pitched ball, but was forced by Galan. Reynolds singled to deep short, scoring Hack. O'Dea popped to Durocher.

French relinquished his first lead in the second inning, but succeeded in holding the Dodgers to one run despite three singles and Cavarretta's error. The hits produced the one run, and the error put runners on third and second with none out. Hayworth then fanned, Durocher was given an intentional pass, loading the bases, and Frankhouse fanned.

Larry Loses a Lead.

The Cubs gave French a 3 to 1 lead in the first of the third, but he blew it in the Brooklyn half of the same inning. Herman opened the inning with a triple to right center, held third while Cavarretta bounced out, and scored on Galan's single to right. Reynolds singled to center, putting Galan on third, whereupon Rogers replaced Frankhouse. O'Dea flied to Hockett, Galan scoring. Rogers tossed out Collins.

There were two out in the Dodger second when French cast his famous home run ball. Hudson opened with a single to left, after which Koy fanned and Camilli flied to Reynolds. French then tossed the home run ball down Sington's alley. He banged it into the left field stands, trotting in behind Hudson to tie the score.

15 TO FACE COURT TODAY IN SEQUEL TO TOMATO RIOT

Wheaton Parents Charge Police Clubbed Pupils.

The annual tomato battle between students and graduates of the Wheaton Community High and the Glenbard High schools in Wheaton ended in a riot last Thursday evening. It will have an official aftermath today before Police Magistrate Frank E. Herrick in Wheaton.

Fifteen persons, including students of both high schools, face charges as a result of the fracas, it was learned yesterday. Most of them are accused of disorderly conduct and assault. They were arrested when the Wheaton police used clubs and tear gas to disperse the student rush.

Parents to Protest.

Parents of some of those arrested said that they would come into court to protest what they called the brutal action of the police. At least six of those who participated in the school rush were beaten about the head and required first aid, it was reported. Policeman Riley Mize of Wheaton was injured when he was struck by a tear gas bomb hurled by his fellow policemen.

Witnesses said about 700 students and former students of both schools met Thursday evening in Hale street in the block between Front street and Wesley avenue. Two squads of police were sent to disperse them.

When the police arrived the students began booing. The police then drew clubs and tried to force them to leave the street. Several students were hit with the clubs when the crowd began hurling tomatoes at the police. A free for all fight between the police and students then ensued, it was said, and the police used their billies freely.

Police Hurl Tear Gas.

The police retreated to the squad cars and began hurling tear gas. The fire department was summoned and ended the fracas by dousing all participants, including the police, with water.

Elmer and Gustave Kresl, brothers, of 1023 East Harrison street, Wheaton, who were among those arrested, reported they were treated by a physician for bruises about the head. Others injured included Charles Bauler and Blaine Christianson of Wheaton, and Robert Hill of Glen Ellyn.

Keim Tibbetts, superintendent of schools in Wheaton, said he had heard conflicting reports of the riot and would await the outcome of today's hearing before taking any action. He asserted that because the riot did not take place on school property no action would likely be taken by the school.

FOOD POISONING CASES RISE TO 42 WITHIN CHICAGO

The number of Chicagoans reported stricken in a five-day outbreak of food poisoning rose yesterday from fifteen to forty-four. Sixteen or more families are involved. All live just north or east of the village of Elmwood Park, where one man died Friday and more than fifteen have become ill.

Chicago board of health officials said that in all but one of the city cases investigators found a record of eating tainted pastry. The symptoms are vomiting, diarrhea, and fever. One Chicago and five Elmwood Park cases are in the Cook County hospital, but all are recovering rapidly.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said there was no cause for widespread alarm, since the infection is confined to one area. Laboratory reports on bacteriological tests for contamination of both pastry and drinking water are expected today.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

50 BILLIONS TAX EXEMPT ISSUES HELD PRIVATELY

Annual Interest Set at $1,554,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Securities of the federal, state, local, territorial, and insular governments held by nongovernmental owners June 30, 1937, and wholly or partly exempt from federal income tax, aggregated $50,522,000,000. The annual interest charges paid on them totaled $1,554,000,000. This was shown by detailed study made public today by the treasury department in cooperation with the bureau of the census.

The study also showed that gross volume of such securities outstanding on the same date had reached a total of $65,648,000,000. This included some duplications, however.

Roosevelt Message Recalled.

Of the total, $15,126,000,000 was held by governments, their sinking funds, trust and investment funds, their agencies and by federal reserve banks. The interest on such obligations amounted to $397,000,000.

The study was of interest at this time because of the message sent to congress last spring by President Roosevelt. The message recommended a "short and simple statute" which would permit the federal government to tax securities hereafter issued by states and local governments. It would confer on the states and local governments the same authority in respect to federal securities.

Such legislation, if adopted, however, would not be retroactive.

How Issues Are Divided.

The gross amount of securities wholly or partly exempt from federal income tax by types of issuers June 30, 1937, was as follows:

Types of borrowers—	Total.	——In millions of dollars—— Wholly exempt.	Partly exempt.
U. S. government.	35,803	15,065	20,738
Federal agencies	10,547	2,228	8,319
State, local govs.	*19,152	*19,152	.....
Terr, insular govs	146	146	.....
Total.....	*65,648	*36,591	29,057

*Estimated.

The estimated gross amount of interest on these securities totaled $1,951,000,000, of which $1,167,000,000 was on securities wholly exempt from the income tax and $784,000,000 on partly exempt securities.

Other Comparisons.

After deducting the $15,126,000,000 held by governmental owners the report presented the following table showing the net volume of the securities exempt from federal income tax, by types of issuers, as of June 30, 1937:

Types of borrowers—	Total.	——In millions of dollars—— Wholly exempt.	Partly exempt.
U. S. government.	29,836	11,600	18,236
Federal agencies.	5,712	1,393	4,319
State, local govs.	*14,854	*14,854	.....
Terr, insular govs	120	120	.....
Total.....	*50,522	*27,967	22,555

*Estimated.

As a general proposition state and local securities are wholly exempt from income tax. In the case of federal securities interest on long term bonds are exempt from the normal income tax but interest on holdings in excess of $5,000 principal amount held by individuals are subject to surtaxes.

Treasury notes and other securities of five years maturity or less are exempt from both normal taxes and surtaxes.

Steel Production Rises to Year's Highest Mark

Steel production last week rose 4.5 points to the highest rate of this year. The magazine Steel yesterday estimated ingot output was at 46 per cent of theoretical capacity. The increase was largely the aftermath of the Labor day interruption of the preceding week, the trade journal said.

Scrap markets were dull last week. Steel's scrap composite was unchanged at $14.25 a ton.

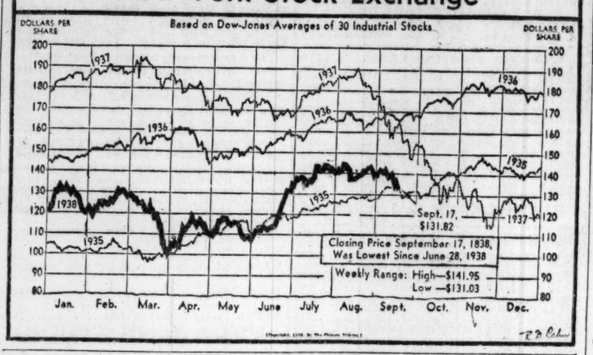
Average Daily Closing Prices of 30 Leading Industrial Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange



Investors' Guide

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New England Mutual Life.

Investors' Guide: Do you regard the New England Mutual Life Insurance company as a strong company? I am considering a policy in the New England Mutual and would be interested in having your comments.—R. J.

Answer: The New England Mutual Life Insurance company ranks high among insurance companies. It has long been ably managed and appears to have more than ample margins for contingencies.

The company started business on Dec. 1, 1843. At the end of 1937 its admitted assets were $402,321,303, net reserves were $324,774,699, and surplus and special funds were $15,295,226. Insurance written last year totaled $156,642,159 and insurance in force at the end of the year was $1,471,806,765.

Nine per cent of assets was represented by real estate at the end of 1937, 14 per cent by mortgage loans, 66 per cent by bonds, 5 per cent by cash, and the remainder by various other types of assets. The percentage of bonds was a little above the average for the business and the percentage of mortgages was considerably less. Cash yield on assets as a whole was 3.5 per cent, a fair rate of return.

Total income last year was $82,453,946 and total disbursements were $50,861,215.

The company sets up reserves mainly on the strongest valuation basis in general use. Reserve for dividends to policy holders is set up for a full year.

San Antonio & Aransas Pass.

Investors' Guide: Please give me a report on the present state of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass 4 per cent bonds of 1945.—Mrs. L. M. L.

Answer: The San Antonio and Aransas Pass 4s of 1943 were assumed by the Texas and New Orleans railroad under a consolidation plan effected June 30, 1934. The Texas and New Orleans is part of the Southern Pacific system and the Southern Pacific company has guaranteed the bonds as to payment of both principal and interest.

Further security for the bonds is a first mortgage on about 800 miles of track. This track does not constitute an essential link in the main line of the Southern Pacific, but does serve a good agricultural and live stock region and provides a gateway for trafic to and from Mexico.

Moore Quits B-G Foods; Will Join J. R. Thompson

Paul Moore, formerly president of B-G Foods, Inc., a Chicago restaurant chain, has resigned as director and officer of that company. He will become executive vice president and general manager of the John R. Thompson company, effective Oct. 1.

ARMOUR UNION TO FIGHT NLRB ON DISSOLUTION

An injunction seeking to restrain the National Labor Relations board from carrying out its order of dissolution against the Armour & Co. Employés Mutual association will be sought in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of 1,000 members of the association at 5239 South State street.

The board ruled last Friday that the union was company dominated. James Holmes, president, declared yesterday that this was untrue and denied the company had ever coerced the members in any manner. Euclid Louis Taylor, attorney for the association, told the gathering that the labor board ruling was unfair and biased in favor of the Committee for Industrial Organization, which is seeking to organize the Armour workers.

Attorney Taylor said a petition for the injunction will be filed within ten days.

Super Market Operators to Open Convention Today

The second annual Super Market institute convention will open today at the Hotel Sherman. About 3,500 operators of "super markets" [retail food distributing stores] are expected to attend. The convention will last three days. Problems of marketing, store layout, and advertising will be discussed.

Everyday Economics

"Fair Trade" Laws—II.

Practically all of the "fair trade" laws, now effective in forty-three states, are patterned after the California act, adopted in 1931 and strengthened in 1933. General provisions are:

Contracts containing resale price agreements are permitted between owners of identified commodities and wholesale and retail distributors in the state. Some states permit only minimum price setting, but others provide that the actual price may be specified.

Owners of the trade-marked merchandise may hold distributors who have not signed a contract to the terms of contracts made with other distributors. This is an essential provision, because it protects the signing distributor from the "unfair competition" of price cutting by nonsigning distributors.

Price cuts below contractual prices are allowed under certain conditions. These include cases where a dealer's stock is being closed out, or where damaged, second hand, or deteriorated goods are being sold, or where the goods are being sold by court order.

WORLD PARLEY TO SCAN POLICY FOR INDUSTRY

Leaders Convene in Washington Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Nearly 2,000 industrial leaders and management experts from twenty-one countries were gathering here today for the opening tomorrow of the seventh international management congress. This is the first time it has been held in America.

W. J. Cameron of Ford Motor company.

The sessions will last five days and will be held at the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The purpose of the gathering is to discuss the economic and social aspects of industrial management from an international viewpoint.

Held Every Three Years.

More than 200 addresses and papers are scheduled to be presented in the fields of administration, production, distribution, personnel, agriculture, and home management. The congress is held every three years.

Among speakers will be Commerce Secretary Daniel C. Roper; William Allen White, editor of the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette; George H. Davis, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Viscount Leverhulme of London, president of the International Committee of Scientific Management; Gino Olivetti of Italy, W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company, A. Basch of Czechoslovakia, and G. Seebauer of Germany.

Czech Delegate Arrives.

In view of the central European crisis, early arrivals here showed interest in a statement of Dr. Emanuel Schlecta, delegate from Czechoslovakia. Dr. Schlecta arrived in New York today en route here. He said he was confident Czechoslovakia will reach a peaceful understanding with the German followers of Konrad Henlein in the Sudeten area.

He declared a plebiscite would be no solution. Any move by Germany to force such a vote, or to require cession of the Sudeten area to Germany, would result in war, he added. Dr. Schlecta, a member of the Czech ministry of posts, is an industrialist and general secretary of the Czechoslovakian nation committee.
